STORE CATTLE SALES.

MESSRS. GANLY, SONS AND CO.

Smaller supplies were offered this week, and not many lots of best condition and quality. There was a fair attendance of both home and cross-Channel buyers, but trade was slow and tedious. Even at the lower level of prices ruling some lots failed to change hands in the ring, but were subsequently placed. Quotations for best lots of bullocks and heifers were from 38/- to 36/- per cwt. One choice pen of Aberdeen-Angus polly bullocks consigned from Wm. MacDermott made 39/6 per cwt.

MESSRS. GAVIN LOW, LTD.

There was a smaller entry at yesterday's sale, which included some lots of choice Aberdeen Angus and Hereford cross bullocks and heifers. With a good attendance of buyers, all nice quality lots changed hands at recent rates, but for other descriptions a slow and dragging trade prevailed, and some pens remained unsold. The following are a few of the principal transactions:—Miss McCabe's A.A. bullocks, £19 (39/6 per cwt.); Mr. John T. Max's A.A. bullocks, £16 15/- (38/-); Mr. Lang's Hereford heifers, £16 15/- (42/-); Mr. S. Somer's polled bullocks, £14 15/- (37/-) and polled heifers, £14 7/6 (36/-); Mr. M. J. Kiernan's heifers, £13 12/6 (41/-); Mr. McCulloch's yearlings, from £10 12/6 to £12 17/6 (around 40/-).

MESSRS. R. AND J. WILKINSON.

With the advancing season there were more home-feeders present at the store cattle sale, but buyers from cross-Channel were few, owing to the bad conditions prevailing in most districts. For nice quality heifers of medium weight there was a steady trade at the present current prices, all lots offering being cleared at the following prices:—£16 5/-, £15, £14 17/6, £14 15/-, £14, £13 15/-, £13 5/-; the live-weight prices varying from 34/6 to 37/- per cwt. Some useful lots of polled and A.A. cross bullocks made £19 2/6, £18 15/-, £18, £17 15/-, £15 2/6, £14 15/- (34/- to 38/6); buyers were enquiring for A.A. cross heifers, but there were no lots on offer.

PRODUCE AND FOOD.

CATTLE.

DUBLIN METROPOLITAN CATTLE, North Circular road, Thursday.—Official register of entrants this morning indicated a slight easing in pressure of supplies of stock, but nevertheless more than enough in each section of market to cover the trade practicable. Besides our regular habitues, there were several newcomers among cattle buyers in shipping interests. Trade for cattle opened with a slight revival in energy and correspondingly firmer tone in values, but unfortunately this improved state of things was only sustained for two or three hours, as coming up to 10 o'clock, when principal export commissions and home victuallers' wants had been satisfied, business lapsed into a much quieter and uncertain routine. Here and there many of the nicer drafts of bullocks and heifers were cashed at a slight appreciation on last Thursday's currencies, but the most that can be said of the money situation generally is that the previous seriously depressed trend in values has been arrested, for the moment at all events. There was, however, a disappointing wind up of market all the same, and a biggish proportional carry-over of offerings. With regard to sheep, trade was no better for even choice handy qualities, and, if anything, worse for the plainer and heavy descriptions. Lambs, too, were a narrow, dragging, and discouraging market.

	Numbers on sale this week	as compared with last.		Corresponding weeks of 1926	1925
Beasts ...	4,252	Decrease	429	4,413	5,118
Sheep and lambs	6,649	,,	155	5,648	5,378
Veal calves...	15	—		16	15

The gathering of cattle was of mostly useful character, but with a conspicuously small proportion of A1 meated quality. Entries also included many roughish grass beasts of little better than storish character. For choice small weights of steers and heifers up to 40s. per cwt. was more frequently recorded, and for occasional super-grades of A.A. types up to 42s. and 42s. 6d. per cwt. was paid. For big quality, well-finished bullocks there was more inquiry in both South of England and Scotch direction, and for the right character up to 13 and 14 cwt. the comparatively satisfactory figures of 37s. 6d. to 38s. 6d. per cwt. were recorded; in some special cases, perhaps, more, as certain commission men, anxious to get a bunch of uniform weight and class together, were not disposed to hesitate much on the question of 6d. or 1s. per cwt. more or less in price. Best run of cattle, however, must still be quoted inside of 36s. 6d. to 37s. 6d. or 38s. per cwt., and useful commercial classes, say, 34s. to 35s. and 36s. It has become more difficult to gauge values or quote accurately for coarse and inferior cattle. Heifers, it should be mentioned, are still figuring rather out of plumb, with steers when coming up to 10 cwt. and over. Beef cows participated in the better tone of beast market, where quality featured prime young, fat cows 27s. 6d. to 30s. and 32s. per cwt., useful sorts 25s. to 26s. 6d.; inferior still at low level.

Market for sheep dragged through slowly, with previous values difficult to maintain, and plainer and heavy descriptions of mutton—in fact, even the choicer small-weights of wethers and hoggets—were more cautiously bid for. Ewes of average class made 46s. to 54s. each, but occasional extra useful-looking pens went 56s. to 58s. or 59s. per cwt. Choice wether mutton 8d. to 8½d. per lb, medium 7d. to 7½d., inferior 5d. to 6½d. per lb. Plenty of good and useful qualities of mutton could be purchased around 7½d. per lb. Lamb season practically done for general trade; few shipping men now operating; butchers, too, are not speculating so much in lamb, and prices now are generally reckoned on mutton basis.

DUBLIN DAIRY CATTLE.—There were rather over 440 milch beasts of one class or another, but mostly heifer milchers, on market yesterday. Trade was scarcely as good, or so well sustained, on the whole, as last day, but particularly good cows of outstanding merit, both heavy capacity types and heavier classes for shipment, were just as keenly sought for, and made about previous values. For home dairy purposes however, trade was quieter and prices showed rather weaker undertone. Choice run of heavy cows from £25 to £28 each, extra good occasionally a pound or two more. For best run of fresh dairy stockers prices were from £19 to £24 and £25 each, and for small and ordinary sorts, say, 11 to 18 guineas apiece. Best quality heifers in milk from £20 to £24 and £25 each, others from £14 to £18, and very numerous inside these values.

DUBLIN PIG.—There was a slight increase in the supply of swine here yesterday, totalling 992 head. Trade was altogether minus any competitive pretension, and values in the circumstances were difficult to maintain and without cohesion. There were a few cross-Channel men in evidence, but their support was of little account to the market. The principal buyers were again pork butchers. For tip-top quality hogs of suitable weights prices were around 80/- to 82/6 per cwt., and for A1 qualities 86/- to 87/6 per cwt., heavier and plainer sorts of hogs were from 70/- to 77/6, and inferior less; sow pigs were from 47/6 to 54/- and 55/- per cwt. The market was difficult to sell up, and for stores of the bonham and slip class prices were very irregular, and at a comparatively cheap level at the moment, being down to 20/- and 25/- each for healthy lots of good size, and even less for others.

BRISTOL.—Beef in fair supply, 84/- to 86/-. Mutton in average supply, 1/- to 1/1, lamb 1/2 to 1/3. Store cattle, 300 offered, but trade slow; milch cows £22 to £25, extras £30.

YORK.—Rather fewer Irish store cattle, but a good show of three-year-old steers. Owing to low price of beef farmers buy slowly, and trade depressed. Smaller entry of English; light show of dairy cattle, prices about late rates. Big entry of sheep, including many North ewes. Trade slow, and prices not quite so good as last week.

BIRMINGHAM PIG.—Fair supply and trade improving, with less plentiful consignments than of late; values steady. Sizeable bacons 13/-, cutters 13/6 to 14/-, and sows 11/- per score dead-weight.

GRAIN.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC—WHEAT—A dull tone pervaded the market for floating and forward cargoes, and prices moved in buyers' favour owing to heavy offerings of low-grade Canadian; white Pacific October sellers 49/6; November, also December, 49/9; No. 3 Northern Manitoba Pacific November 50/6, December 49/3, January 49/3, Rosafe (62½lbs.) October, also new January-February, 50/-; Barusso (62½lbs.) January-February 49/6, Australian afloat 51/9 to 52/- as to position. LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—American and Argentine markets were closed yesterday owing to holiday. Winnipeg cables finished worse than expected and forward deliveries of wheat here showed a moderate decline at the outset, and further gave way, with slight interruptions, on freer offerings, finishing at the worst point and marking a fair decline from Wednesday night, afternoon cables contributing to this end. C.i.f. parcels wheat No. 2 Manitoba October-November sold 52/9, No. 3 Manitoba October-November 50/3, No. 3 Manitoba-Vancouver January 48/9, December 49/3, 15th January 48/9 per qr. C.i.f. parcels MAIZE River Plate arrived sold 31/10½ to 32/-, afloat 32/3 to 32/4½, September-October 32/6, October-November 32/6 to 32/7½, November-December 32/9 per qr. Wheat on the spot quiet and about unchanged. Maize spot parcels steady at 7/- to 7/0½ per cental for River Plate. FLOUR quiet, unchanged. Graded wheat futures opened ½d. to ¼d. per cental lower, further gave way, and closed ¼d. to ½d. under Wednesday night.

BRISTOL.—English wheat, ordinary 48/- on rail, seed 52/- on rail; foreign wheat, spot Manitobas scarce, passage 59/3. Grinding barley steady; Persians 54/9. Plate maize quiet; values unchanged, 31/-. Oats quiet, very little doing.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON—There was a steady feeling in Irish and Continental descriptions, and late prices are maintained, but buyers operate somewhat more cautiously, while American remains quiet at the recent decline, bellies exceptionally being further reduced to 90/- to 94/- per cwt. HAMS again quiet, and, with free sellers, short cut are easier at 86/- to 96/- per cwt. Shoulders quiet, but not quotably altered. DUBLIN POTATO.—Supplies continue to come in very freely, and on present slow trade are hard to appreciably reduce. It does not appear either that any material reduction in prices would result in a corresponding expansion of the consumptive demand for potatoes. City prices 5/- to 5/6 per cwt., and extra nice lots up to 6/- per cwt.

CORK BUTTER.—The market remains unchanged. Creameries 170/- to 174/- per cwt., choicest salted 174/- upwards.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR.—The market is not quite so active, but there is a moderate business doing in near sugars, prices of which are steady.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.—American futures ruled quiet, but steady during the morning, and prices rose several points, but in the afternoon reacted slightly owing to weaker New York cables. The market, however, closed steady again. Sales, 8,000 bales (exports 300). American Futures—Tendency steady; October 11.05d., November 11.05d., December 11.08d., January 11.10d., February 11.09d., March 11.11d., April 11.09d., May 11.11d., June 11.06d., July 11.02d., August 10.91d., September 10.80d., October 10.67d. Egyptian Futures—Tendency quiet; Sakels. January 18.43d., March 18.51d., May 18.57d.; Upper January 15.21d., March 15.47d.

BRADFORD WOOL.—Continued strength of raw material keeps prices very firm for near delivery at 51d. for 64's and 21½d. for 40's prepared. Topmakers are offering merinos for delivery next year at a penny reduction on spot rates, but so far users show little interest. Yarns very firm, with hardening tendency.

MANCHESTER HAY AND STRAW.—Both hay and straw in small supply at recent rates. Lincolnshire rye grass and clover £6 10/-, Cheshire £5 5/- to £5 10/-, meadow hay £5 5/-; oats and wheat straw 55/-, all delivered Manchester. Prime Canadian mixed clover hay £5 5/- to £5 10/-, timothy £5 to £5 10/- per ton ex quay.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

SHARP FALL IN TIN.

A further sharp decline occurred in TIN values owing to lower Eastern cables and liberal offerings, but considerable irregularity was noticeable, especially with regard to forward positions, and a fair business resulted. On balance cash ruled 45/- and forward 32/6 per ton lower compared with the final rates of Wednesday. Standard cash quoted £259 10/- to £259 15/-, three months £258 to £258 5/-, settlement price £259 10/-. 700 tons changed hands; cash at £260 5/-, £259 5/- and £259 10/-, three months £258, £258 5/-, £257 5/-, and finally registered at £258 2/6; English ingots quoted £259 5/- to £259 15/-. COPPER again firmer, though slightly irregular, cash ruling 6/3 and forward 5/- to 6/3 up on balance. IRISH RAILWAY TRIBUNAL.

THE CARRIAGE OF WILD ANIMALS.

The Irish Railway Tribunal, consisting of Judge O'Brien, K.C. (chairman), and Messrs. John R. Kerr and Henry Mangan, sat in the City Hall, Dublin, yesterday, to consider the conditions governing the conveyance of traffic by passenger trains on the Great Southern Railways.

The Chairman said that a number of regulations had already been very carefully considered. Some of them were very intricate.

Mr. Kelly agreed as to their intricacy, and said that it was necessary to make them as explicit as possible in the public interest. For that reason it would be well to err on the side of caution and avoid complaints by the public.

The Chairman expressed the opinion that it would be well to classify goods and merchandise.

The Tribunal then proceeded to examine seriatim the conditions and the regulations in regard to goods, minerals and live stock.

WILD ANIMALS.

Answering the Chairman, Mr. Elliott, traffic manager, Great Southern Railways, said that they were not bound to carry wild animals, but they carried them nevertheless.

The Chairman observed that under the Act merchandise was supposed to include animals of every description. Did that include wild animals?—I would not say that.

Mr. Kelly thought that the words "wild animals" might be deleted. They should leave it optional for the company to carry such animals. At the same time he might say that the company would continue to carry them, but not by special trains, and when carrying them they would charge special rates. There was a wild animal rate.

The Chairman said that the Tribunal had excluded wild animals from the classification of live stock, but would alter that by allowing them to be carried at the discretion of the company and on the sole responsibility of the owner. The condition would apply to bears and lions.

WINE.

In connection with the subject of personal and passenger luggage, the Chairman asked if that would include, for instance, a case of champagne.

Mr. Elliott said that a case of wine would not be personal luggage. Recently, he added, the company had a claim for £100 for a ring which, it was alleged, had been extracted from a passenger's luggage.

The Tribunal adjourned until October 26 next.

Mr. W. E. F. Manning and Mr. R. W. Marshall represented Messrs. A. Guinness, Son and Co., Ltd. Mr. E. W. Selfe represented the Irish Railway Traders' Committee. Mr. J. Ingram was present on behalf of the Ministry of Industry and Commerce. Mr. E. J. Kelly (instructed by Mr. F. de Vere White) represented the Great Southern Railways Company.

Messrs. Horlick's Malted Milk Company, Ltd., of Slough, have acquired from Messrs. Thew, Hooker and Gilbey, Ltd., a subsidiary company of the United Dairies, Ltd., the business known as "Hooker's Malted Milk."

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

MALICIOUS DAMAGE AND ASSAULT.

OLD OFFENDER IN COURT.

(BEFORE MR. E. A. COLLINS.)

Joseph Edelstein, aged about 40 years, of no fixed address, was charged with having, between 7 and 8 o'clock on Wednesday night, maliciously broken two ornamental electric lamps, value £10, erected outside the hall-door of 4 Harrington street, the property of Dr. Wigoder, by striking them with a walking-stick. He was also charged with having assaulted a boy named James Ferris at Camden street by striking him with a walking-stick, as a result of which the boy had to be surgically treated.

Dr. Wigoder, giving evidence, said that at about 7.30 p.m. on the previous day he heard a loud knock at his door, followed by a tinkling of glass. He went out and saw the defendant at the door, brandishing a large stick. He closed the door, and soon afterwards heard another crash of glass. He subsequently saw the defendant standing on his path. Two large globes of standard lamps were broken.

The lad, James Ferris, gave evidence that, after leaving a fish shop in Harrington street, he saw the defendant at the footway before him and stepped on to the roadway to pass him, when Edelstein struck him over the eye with a stick.

The defendant volunteered to give evidence, and when he got into the witness box he requested to be sworn on the New Testament in Christian fashion. When he was handed the Testament he looked at the Justice and smiled, but did not give evidence.

The excuse given by Edelstein for his conduct was that he had been drinking brandy and port wine. On the first charge he was sentenced to two months' hard labour and on the second charge to one month, the sentences to run concurrently.

The Defendant—Calendar months, sir?

The Justice—Calendar or lunar months—whichever you like.

The Defendant—Lunar months would be more suitable. (Laughter.) I suppose I shall have to do hard labour?

The Justice—Yes.

TRACTOR AND TRAILER.

HEAVY MOTOR PROSECUTION DISMISSED.

(BEFORE MR. LITTLE.)

John D. Wallis, 33 Bachelor's Walk, forage contractor, was summoned for permitting a motor car to be used at Albert quay, Kingsbridge, without being fitted with a reflecting mirror, and for permitting a heavy motor car to be used at the same time and place without having painted thereon the registered weight of the axle and the highest rate of speed at which the car might be driven—viz., twelve miles an hour.

The case for the prosecution was that both the motor car and trailer should be taken as one, according to the definition of unladen weight in the Roads Act of 1920. The weight of the tractor was 1 ton 9 cwt. and the weight of the trailer 1 ton 17 cwt., making 3 tons 6 cwt., the two constituting a heavy motor car. The trailer was necessary to the tractor, and was ordinarily with it.

Mr. E. H. Burne (Messrs. Gerald Byrne and Co.), for the defence, submitted that the tractor and the trailer were separate and distinct vehicles, and that the tractor was capable of being used without the trailer.

The Justice held that the tractor drawing the trailer was not a heavy motor car, and, therefore, under the existing Act, the tractor and the trailer could not be classed as a heavy motor within the meaning of the Act. Accordingly, he dismissed the case.

"PILGRIM SCRIP."

"MORE Random Reminiscences" is the sub-title of Sir John Ross's new book—a breezy volume of anecdotes. One day when Lord Roberts had breakfasted, Sir John Ross took him to the Dublin "Zoo" to see the Batteleur eagle. "This strange bird had an amusing habit of spreading out his wings and then bowing to the ground three times, accompanying his prostration with a deeply reverential sound. When Lord Roberts came to the cage I presented him," Sir John Ross says, "with his full titles, to the bird, which then expressed his homage in the usual way. The Field-Marshal was absolutely astonished, and, drawing himself up, he responded with a most formal military salute."

Some of Sir John Ross's stories recall happily irresponsible days that now unhappily are gone. On one occasion, he says, a distinguished Japanese statesman who had been an enthusiastic advocate of the introduction of Christianity into Japan and was himself a profound theologian, was being entertained at the Kildare Street Club. He praised its grandeur and said that he supposed that among its members were to be found the high ecclesiastical dignitaries. His host, being somewhat embarrassed, made an evasive reply. On coming out to the hall the guest said that he craved the honour of being presented to some of them. His entertainer, in despair, looked round and his eye rested on a ruddy-faced and hard-swearing squire. Advancing to him with many winks and signals indicating the part that he was to play, the host introduced the hope of Asia, announcing that the squire was the Archbishop of Ulster and Leinster.

The Jap, Sir John Ross says, "approached his pretended Grace with many reverences, and finally almost dropped on all fours. Then a theological discussion took place in which the squire, urged on by threatening gestures, made heroic efforts to keep his end up. On coming to take the guest elsewhere, the host heard the squire exclaim: 'Justification by faith. By gad, sir, if there's one thing I go nap on—it's that.'"

Many good stories of the legal profession are told. "It was always a great joy to the Bar wags to find a credulous reporter who could be imposed upon to publish an account of some bogus case among the ordinary law reports," he says.

On one occasion a barrister who had bought a fine house in Merrion square was showing it to a friend, whom Sir John Ross chooses to call Jinks. "On parting, he kindly invited Jinks, when he felt so disposed, to come in and have a warm bath in his luxurious bathroom. A few days afterwards there appeared among the law reports the case of the King v. Jinks, in which it was stated that counsel for the Crown had applied to the King's Bench Division for a writ of Lavare to wash Jinks. A learned judgment was reported."

RECENT FICTION.

SOME IRISH NOVELISTS.

SEVERAL novels by Irish authors have appeared recently. First Mr. de Vere Stacpoole, world-famous for his iridescent novels of blue lagoons and pearl fishers, is on ground which he has made peculiarly his own in "The Mystery of Uncle Bollard," and the result is a tale that hurries us along over "miles of water thrashed by the wind to cornflower blue," from San Francisco, "City of Youth and High Adventure," down to "The Islands," back to the Golden Gate, along to Los Angeles, and, finally, over the bay to Avalon, aptly-named pleasure island of the rich. To all the customary charm of Mr. Stacpoole's narrative is added the excitement of a police hunt for a murderer, and in Uncle Bollard he has created a very real and likeable character.

* * *

Is it Celtic influence which is responsible for the light and graceful narrative touch displayed by W. Seymour Leslie in "The Silent Queen"? Although the author formally disavows outobiography, his pictures of "The Vanished Spaciousness of the 'Nineties" have the stamp of authentic memories, and that glimpse of the old castle in the West of Ireland could have been vouchsafed only to one for whom it had kindly family associations, mellowed by time. It is more clear-cut than his impressions of other countries (outside England), which, with the exception of that "America of grave modesty and simplicity, where money and success is not everything," are given to us as vignettes. In the matter of portraiture the author avoids laboured limning, and presents his characters in a series of flashes. It is an unusual, and, in many ways, a brilliant novel. The illustrations by Miss Nina Hamnett also are unusual.

* * *

After the flowing ease of Mr. Stacpoole's narrative and the light, tripping style of Mr. Leslie, "The Valley of Mist," by Michael Doone, is a tedious affair. It is crammed with errors of fact. The pivot of the plot is wholly impossible. The idea that a young priest who has confessed to murder—and got off with the extraordinarily light sentence of three years in Mountjoy—could marry his childhood's sweetheart, return in triumph and settle down in his native village, is preposterous to anyone who knows Ireland. Earlier in the story the hero is described as going to the fair "dressed in breeches, green coat, billycock hat, and armed with a shillelah," which is a further indication of the vast distance separating the author from the real Ireland.

* * *

"Echo," by Shaw Desmond, is a vivid reconstruction of ancient Rome and the Circus Maximus. The hero is a red-headed Celt who found his way there some two thousand years ago, and, who, in the twentieth century, has the past recalled—with more detail than has been noticed as yet in any "ancestral memory"—by a glimpse in an old London garden of his lady love of the long ago, "before love and all the beautiful dreams had gone a-begging in the sand of the Roman arena." It is done with all the skill which we have come to expect from this Irish author, whose temperament is such a curious blend of poet and realist. There are many beautiful passages, and some which, for brutal realism, hardly could be surpassed.

"'WARE VENICE."

THE Authors of "'Ware Venice," who have many clever novels to their credit, now present us with a thrilling romance that, doubtless, will be appraised as outstanding in the batch of new autumn fiction. The story is concerned with the Spanish plot against Venice, chiefly organised by the Ambassador, the Marquis Bedmar, in the year 1618, and a groundwork of shifting chicanery and violence is magically interwoven with the enduring beauty and serenity of nature. Rosalind Amber, the young Englishwoman, whose strange love-story is played out with little interlude between peril and panic, makes an alluring heroine; but in Desmond O'Donnell, the reckless and, withal, mystical Irishman, who attains the highest spiritual peak in sacrificing himself for the beloved, we have a creation whom we are the better for having known.

ALARCON IN ENGLISH.—Alarcón, one of the most popular Spanish novelists of the last century, won fame with a tale in the tradition of the tales of roguery, "The Three-Cornered Hat." A translation has been made by Mr. Martin Armstrong and illustrated in spirited manner by Mr. Norman Tealby, yielding a handsome volume. (London: Howe. 12s. 6d. net.)

In some aspects the modern has become so absurd that it cannot be caricatured.—Mr. G. K. Chesterton.

LORD BIRKENHEAD AND MR. CHURCHILL.

THE score of essays in two volumes by the Secretary of State for India, if not all of the same high standard, reveal his ability to survey mankind from China to Peru in entertaining and illuminative fashion. It is amusing to find him turning the other cheek, as it were, to Lady Oxford in a short essay entitled "The Truth about 'Margot Asquith.'" He is on his own ground in the articles on "The Gladstone Case and Cognate Topics," "Law and the Public," "Breach of Promise of Marriage," "The King's Proctor," and "Divorce Law Reform"; yet he manages to submerge the lawyer sufficiently to save the essays from being caviare to the general.

Some of the other essays prompt the reader to speculate as to how far the time and place of original publication influenced the writer. Good breeding sometimes must be a handicap when writing for the moment, while there are also other considerations to clog the pen. For example, one would have expected at least a passing reference to Ireland in the very sound article on "Patriotism and the Monarchy." For most readers the most interesting chapter in the two volumes will be that brief fragment of autobiography styled "Milestones of My Life."

* * * * *

AT first "Ephesian's" volume, which he styles "an account of the life" of Mr. Winston Churchill, irritates because it is written in the historic present tense, after the fashion prevalent amongst minor novelists a decade ago; but his intimate knowledge of his subject and the skill with which he handles it soon makes the reader oblivious of this mannerism. The author says that Mr. Churchill is "half a Pitt and half a Puck." As to the Puck element, its existence will be denied by few who have studied Mr. Churchill's career: as to the Pitt characteristics, the author does his best to demonstrate them by many illustrations.

Summarising the case pro and con in a paragraph, he says:

> On the one hand, profound knowledge, industry, a meticulous sense of humour, moral courage, and an infinite capacity for responsibility; and, on the other, ingenuity, fearlessness, a loathing of hypocrisy and casuistry, and boundless enthusiasm. His enthusiasm is certainly sometimes misplaced, and he makes corresponding errors of judgment.

"Ephesian" believes that, as Mr. Churchill grows older, the Pitt element will dominate the Puckish nature more and more.

The author defends his subject on almost every point, including his activities during the war. In the matter of the war, indeed, he considers that no soldier showed more foresight; that the Antwerp affair was a work of vital importance, and that Mr. Churchill was in no way to blame for the terrible failure in the Dardanelles. Despite his whole-hearted admiration, apparent in every page, "Ephesian" is frankly baffled by the many facets of his subject.

"New Wine," by Geoffrey Moss, is the romance of a little French girl married to an invalid husband and domiciled in Rumania. In order to keep herself and her husband she takes a job in a cabaret, and, although her intentions are strictly honourable, she soon finds herself in a most invidious position. So far, Mr. Moss has rambled on conventionally enough, and as the situation becomes more tense he prepares the reader for the usual dramatic coups which one expects in such a story. Actually he springs a big surprise, and just when the reader has made up his mind that the ending is obvious, he is brought face to face with what in real life might be a very much more obvious ending. It is rather clever of Mr. Moss, and redeems a lot of the commonplaces in which he indulges earlier in the book.

DUBLIN PROFIT-TAKING.

GUINNESS UNDER BEST.

Outside half a dozen specialities, mostly in the Manufacturing and Industrial sections, business on 'Change yesterday was not conspicuous by either activity or strength, and prices fluctuated on profit-taking, especially at the close, when some rather free selling pressure developed and upset prices more or less all round. The "boom" condition of the Guinness market was distinctly evident at the opening, when the price, after opening at 46, touched 46½, or 2 1/16 over the previous day's top quotation, but immediately profit-taking was indulged in, and quotations slipped back gradually to 46 sellers, while at the later session the reactionary tendency continued, and finally 45½, a rise on the day of 1 1/16, was recorded. Distillers eased further to 58s. 6d. Marconi Ordinary were lively, and the price was carried up on further substantial support to 27s., a rise of 2s., but later 26s. 3d. was the closing figure. Rail Ordinary quoted higher, especially for Co. Downs, which rose sharply. Great Southern Ordinary was the turn harder, but the Guaranteed gave way ½ to 50. Debenture and Preference issues did not alter. Dublin United Tram Ordinary were a shade better at 80s. 7½d. Parent Trust Preference eased, but the Deferred rose. Coats were very active and firm at a slight recovery. Courtaulds were buoyant and touched 7½, but closed a little under this figure. Imperial Chemicals and British Match were both realised, and closed very dull markets at a decline. Dunlop Rubber Ordinary were active and strong once more, and closed 1s. 4½d. higher. Textiles generally were inclined to vary a little, with Spinners and Cottons bid for and Bleachers easier. Tobaccos varied. "Bats" eased, but Imperials of Canada were harder. British Celanese recovered nearly 10s. a share, and Branstons were well held at 16s. 4½d., despite profit-taking. Shell Transports advanced.

LONDON QUIET.

RALLY IN BRITISH CELANESE.

Dealings in the London Stock Markets as a whole yesterday were on a somewhat quieter tone, but there was still a number of strong features, more particularly among Industrials, where British Celanese rallied smartly. The usual idleness associated with the settlement was in evidence in the gilt-edged section, but despite the slackness of interest a generally steady to firm tone ruled. Little of interest transpired among Foreign Government Stocks, but a firm tone still ruled in Home Rails, but towards the close a reaction set in, and in several cases part of the initial improvements were lost. Colonial and Foreign Rails were easier inclined.

Considerable activity was evident in the Industrial section, and a firm tone ruled. Foremost, perhaps, was the recovery in British Celanese to 5 3/16 and a rise in Courtaulds to 7½, the latter on the negotiations which are taking place by the Courtauld associated companies to acquire the Tubize Company, with its Celanese rights. Gramophones advanced sharply at first, but eased later, while Match issues came into demand again. Dunlops were another firm spot, and Marconis improved further. An irregular tendency characterised dealings in Rubbers, while Oils weakened after early strength. Mines generally were idle and little altered.

IRISH RAILWAY CLEARING HOUSE.

At a meeting of the General Managers' Conference, held at the Irish Railway Clearing House, 5 Kildare street, Dublin, on 13th instant, Mr. J. B. Stephens, General Manager of the Great Northern Railway (Ireland) was unanimously elected Chairman of the Conference for the year 1928.

COATS RUMOURS.

The Financial News states that the technical staff of Coats has been investigating the suitability of the Paisley mills for artificial silk production, and it is believed that their researches have proved most encouraging. Coats—so the rumour goes—will manufacture on behalf of or in collaboration with Courtaulds, the latter concern having more work on hand than can be undertaken in its own works. The fact that the American subsidiary of J. and P. Coats recently entered the artsilk field certainly lends colour to the story, though the company now denies the rumours that are being spread about regarding its business.

TRANSVAAL DIAMONDS.

The Western Transvaal output of alluvial diamonds for August was valued at £470,000, an increase of £127,000 upon the July result. The diggers held back the June and July production owing to the indifferent prices which then prevailed. An improvement occurred in August. The biggest stone weighed 41 carats, and was valued at £1,538.

TUBIZE AND CELANESE.

LONDON CHANGES.

In the Gilt-edged section there were no striking price changes.

In Foreign Government Stocks here and there lower values were returned. Chinese issues, however, were firm, and the 5 p.c. 1912 were finally a point better at 36½. Among the Reconstruction Loans German issues dropped a point to 105, while Peruvian Corporation Ord. at 15½ and the Pref. at 54 were ¼ and ½ lower respectively.

RAILS STEADY.

Home Railways made a strong start, but later on an easier tendency developed, and early improvements were discounted in several instances. Metropolitan Consols provided a firm market, and the closing value was 2 points firmer at 58½, while Districts showed an advance of ½. North-Eastern 5 p.c. Pref.-Ord. at 41 and Southern Pref.-Ord. at 72½ and the Def.-Ord. at 38 were all ½ to the good. Underground Ord. stiffened to 18s. 9d., or 3d. above Wednesday's value.

Colonial and Foreign Rails were easier in places. B.A. Pacifics dropped ½ to 97, while the Western at 94 were also ½ lower. Antofagasta Ord. and Central Argentine Ord. were also both ½ lower, while United Havana recorded a similar loss to 74. "Canpacs" were held at 200.

RUBBER SHARES IRREGULAR.

The volume of business passing in the Rubber Share market continued on an extremely small scale, while an irregular tendency prevailed. In the Commodity market the raw material was in slow request; spot and Oct. fetched 1s. 4d., 1s. 3⅞d. and 1s. 4d. per lb., while Nov. sold 1s. 4d. to 1s. 4⅛d.; Jan. to March realised 1s. 4⅜d. and April to June 1s. 5d. In the Share market, Bah Lias made a better showing, and the final level of 44s. 4½d. c.d. was 1s. 10½d. better, while Kuala Muda at 38s. 9d. and Telogoredjo at 51s. 3d. were each 1s. 3d. firmer. Straits Rubber stiffened to 21s. 3d., or 7½d. harder, and Rubber Trusts were quoted 39s. 3d. c.d. B.N.B.R. Trust Pref., on the other hand, went off to 73, or a point down; while the Defd. lost 2½ to 155. Grand Central dropped 9d. to 36s. 3d. c.d., and Lendu at 18s. 9d. were 1s. 3d. easier.

TEA SHARES QUIET.

Dealings continued on a quiet scale in the Tea Share market, but the tendency was easier. Actual price movements, however, were not numerous, but of those recorded the majority were against holders. Amalgamated Estates were dull, and lost ⅛ at 50, while Cons. Tea and Lands at 37⅝ were also ⅛ easier. Ceylon Plant. dropped 1/32, and Chargola at 26s. were 1s. down; while Jorehaut slumped to 94s., or 2s. 3d. below their overnight level. Moabund went back to 59s., or 1s. down, and Lebong and Makum each shed 6d. on the day. Imperials were marked 1s. 6d. better to 58s., while Lungla at 29s. 9d. were 9d. firmer. Deundi stiffened the turn, and small improvements were recorded in Assam Cons., Eastern Assam, and Upper Assam.

OIL SHARES FEATURELESS.

Business in Oil shares yesterday was of a steady character, and, although there were some interesting fluctuations in certain of the leading counters, there were no really outstanding features. As a matter of fact, the price movements finally recorded were few in number, small in amount, and irregular in character. Among the leading issues, Anglo-Persians and Burmahs attracted the bulk of attention. A firm start was made by Anglo-Persians, the shares advancing to 3 15/16 in the early hours. From this point a set-back occurred to 3 13/16, followed by a rally to 3 15/16, which left them unchanged. Burmahs, after rising to 4 13/16 buyers, receded to 4 11/16, and closed at 4 13/16, the result being a gain of 1/16. A steady business was transacted in Shells, which, after weakening to 4⅝, left off without alteration at 4 11/16, the Bearer shares also being unchanged at 4 9/16. Mexican Eagles Ord. and 8 p.c. Part. Prefs. developed an easier tendency, losing 3d. both at 17s. 1½d., but the 7 p.c. First Prefs. remained steady at 18s. 9d. A moderate amount of offering was the cause of a loss of 1/16 in V.O.C. Ord at 3⅝, and the Prefs. at 3 5/16. British Controlled were inclined to harden in the early hours, but finished without alteration. In other directions, Lobitos, after having been bid for at 4, came back sharply to 3⅞, but improved later to 3 15/16, or 1/16 down on the day. Kern Rivers closed easier at 11s. 9d., despite satisfactory production figures for the past month.

INDUSTRIALS STEADIER.

The Industrial market, as a whole, had a steadier appearance yesterday, with an active business passing in several directions. Less excitement was witnessed in Celanese issues, which, after the shakeout, trended upward again, with transactions on a fairly large scale. British Celanese Ord. showed hesitation at the opening, but the price gradually improved in response to supporting orders, finishing 11/16 higher on balance at 5 3/16, with the Pref. 1s. 1½d. to the good at 33s. 7½d. and the Bonds closing at 3⅝ prem. Courtaulds were in renewed evidence on reported Cartel negotiations, the closing price of 7½ leaving them with a net gain of 3/16. Nueras strengthened, the Ord. gaining ⅛ at 1⅜, and the Defd. 1s. 6d. at 22s. 9d. The Textile leaders hardened in places, Calico Printers putting on 1s. 6d. to 29s., with Sewing Cottons closing buyers at 51s. 3d., and "Slubbers" at 8s. A firmer tendency developed among Coal, Steel and Engineering descriptions. Bengal Irons were marked up 2s. 6d. to 27s. 9d., and Chinese Engineering advanced ¼ to 3 3/16. Babcock rose 1s. to 59s. 3d., Lamberts 9d. to 52s., and Baldwins a like amount to 6s. 7½d. Armstrongs stiffened to 4s., Cammell Lairds to 8s., Consetts to 11s. 9d., Wm. Corys to 58s., and Thorneycrofts to 28s. On the other hand, South Durhams were easier at 43s. 9d., and Powell Duffryns at 22s.

In Electrical Equipments, Callenders closed 2s. 3d. to the good at 75s. 9d. The Supply Shares were quietly maintained. Shipping issues were inclined to harden, Court Lines moving up 1s. to 32s. Insurance Shares kept firm, but Banks developed irregularity. Breweries attracted attention. Hoars strengthened to 3⅝, with Allsopps Pref. marked a point higher at 112½. Guinness [illegible]

BANK OF ENGLAND.

RESERVE HIGHER.

Owing mainly to a contraction of £717,000 in the note circulation—a movement off-set to the extent of only about £172,000 by a drop in the coin and bullion—the reserve of the Bank of England is £545,000 higher at £34,484,805, which is within £100,000 of the total at the corresponding date of 1926. The deposits are substantially lower, and consequently the proportion of reserve to liabilities is 2 higher at nearly 28 per cent. There is a decrease of nearly £5,000,000 in the Government securities, and one of over £3,000,000 in the other securities, while the public deposits are nearly £837,000 higher. These three movements aggregate nearly £9,000,000, and, deducting the increase in the reserve, £8,358,000 is left, which is the extent of the week's drop in the private deposits, reducing that item to £101,500,000.

LONDON MINING MARKET LIVELIER.

KAFFIRS BETTER ON ENCOURAGING ADVICES.

Firmness characterised most departments of the Stock Exchange yesterday, but members were occupied with the final adjustment of the account, and business was not on a large scale. Among speculative securities Mines were rather more prominent than on preceding days, and in the Kaffir section most of the movements were in favour of holders. This particular market was helped by the receipt of more encouraging advices and some buying orders for specialities from Paris, and, as the Cape lent a little support, professionals here were inclined to be bullish. Among the finance descriptions Central Mining were a strong spot, these and Rand Mines and "Johnnies" being influenced by French purchases. African and European, Anglo-French Goldfields, Rand Selection and "Generals" were also better, while Anglo-American were well maintained. Robinson Deep B, Sub Nigel, Geduld, East Geduld and Modder B were inquired for from Johannesburg, and moved up, and some of the lower-priced shares hardened, West Rand being better. East Rand, however, were left to themselves, and Modder East lost the turn. Transvaal "Devels" and Henderson's were marked down, and the other platinum issues were without change. In the Rhodesian department Chartered were something of a feature, though the sharp recovery in the price was almost entirely due to Paris buying. "Tanks," and "Zams.," on the other hand, lacked Continental support, and eased fractionally. Rhodesian and General Asbestos, Congo Border and the Northern issues generally kept firm, except that a little offering of Rhodesia Broken Hill on an unresponsive market caused a slight set-back. Diamonds were better inclined, and De Beers Def. and Jagersfontein moved up pending further news of the Precious Stones Bill. However, this department remains somewhat "sticky." Consolidated African Selection receded on further profit-taking. The price of tin dropped £3 5s. to £259 12s. 6d. per ton, but this was not the sole reason for the dulness of the share market. A strong attack was made upon London Tins, which, in view of the somewhat sensational advance of a month or so ago, had come to be looked upon as a sort of leader of the market. A slump in these shares naturally depressed other members of the group, and Tin Selection Trust, Tavoy, Northern Tavoy, Associated Kampar, Juga Valley and Jarawa were all more or less severely handled. Nigerians suffered with other things, and Anglo-Continental and one or two others weakened, while the Tanganyika group displayed dulness. Barriers again gave a good account of themselves, and Props, Souths, Norths, Sulphides and Zincs all registered appreciable gains. In the Copper section Rio Tinto strengthened, and, among Canadians, Kirkland Lake went ahead. Elsewhere Burma Corporation strengthened on the improvement in metal values, but Santa Gertrudis lost the turn. Closing prices:—

FUNDS HIGHER. BANK STOCK OFFERED. MARCONI AND DUNLOPS BETTER. COURTAULDS GOOD. COATS HARDER.

Government National 5 p.c. Sterling Loan repeated 96½, the Deed Stock 96¼, Compensation 5 p.c. 96½, and Land Bonds 4½ p.c. 95.

In British Funds War Loan 5 p.c. rose 1/16 to 102 13/16, Conversion 3½ p.c. 1/16 to 75 7/16, and India 3 p.c. no less than 1 3/16 to 60 13/16 for an exceptional lot; but Funding Loan fell ⅛ to 85⅞ for a small lot.

Banks were quiet, with dealing again in Hibernians at 8½ and Nationals at 21, but Bank of Ireland Stock quoted ½ lower at 272-273 nominally.

In Breweries and Distilleries Guinness Ord. opened a further 1 1/16 higher at 46, and then advanced to 46½, but selling pressure then set in on profit-taking, and the quotations slipped to 46⅜ ¼ ⅛ 46, 5⅞ ½, the latter prices being recorded at the later market, and thus the rise on the day was reduced to 1 1/16. Distillers fell 6d. further to 58s. 6d.

Marconis were active and good at 26s. to 27s., and back to 26s. 6d. 26s. 3d. at the close.

Among Rails Belfast and Co. Down rose 1⅜ to 16⅜ for an odd lot, and Great Southern Ord. rallied 1/16 to 18 3/16; but the Pref. of the latter repeated 40 and the Debs. 64, while the Guaranteed slipped ½ to 50. Great Northern Debs. were unaltered at 66.

In Trams Dublin United Ord. rose 1/32 to 4 1/32.

Coats Ord. rose 4½d. to 62s. 7½d., after being busy at 62s. 6d. to 62s. 9d. Bleachers eased 3d. to 39s. 9d., but Fine Spinners rose 6d. to 49s. 6d. Imperial Chemicals further fell 9d. to 32s. 6d. 32s. 3d., and the Deferred 4½d. to 10s. 9d. 10s. 6d. Dunlop Rubber Ord. developed further strength, and closed 1s. 4½d. higher at 36s. 4½d., after dealing between 36s. 3d. and 36s. 6d. Vickers were busy and firm at 11s. 9d. 11s. 10½d.

THE MONEY MARKET.

EASIER CONDITIONS.

Conditions were decidedly easier in Lombard street yesterday owing to the release of funds called in on Wednesday, and, after being 3¾ per cent. in the market, short loans were usually obtainable at 3½ per cent. towards the close. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 3½ to 3¾ per cent., and weekly fixtures went on at 3½ per cent.

The Discount market remained idle, apart from some purchases of mid-December Treasuries by some of the banks at 4 5/16 per cent. Fine three months' commercial bills were maintained at 4 5/16 per cent., but the new Treasuries were not so firm at 4 5/16-4 5/16 per cent.

The Bank of England announced the sale of bar gold valued at £17,000, and the export of 6,000 sovereigns to Germany. Gold remained at 84s. 11½d. per fine oz. The spot price of silver fell 1/16d. to 25 11/16d., but forward was unchanged at 25¾d. per oz. The China banks bought and sold.

A trifling improvement in the American exchange brought the quotation to 4.87⅛, and Montreal rose to 4.86⅝. South American currencies were little changed. An important movement in the European list was the depreciation of Spanish pesetas, the rate for which rose sharply to fully 28.30. Another feature was a very sharp rise in Dutch florins, the quotation falling 1⅜ to 12.12½. German marks were a little better, but Belgas, Norwegian kroner, and Turkish piastres were cheaper. Apart from a reaction in the yen to 1s. 10 15/16d., Eastern exchange rates were unaltered.

IRISH LINEN TRADE.

INCREASED ORDERS.

The Belfast Linen Market report for fortnight ending 12th October states:—

Flax.—Irish—The markets are late in opening this year owing to unfavourable harvest weather. One or two markets have been held with small offerings. Demand has been keen for all classes, and prices very firm.

Yarns—There is no quotable change to report during the past fortnight. So far as orders are concerned, spinners are in a comfortable position as regards quantity, but it is a different matter looked at from the angle of flax holders' demands, which are certainly not on a par with yarn prices. Buying has not been on so large a scale as during some previous weeks. Spinners with present commitments are not pressing. Prices of all kinds firm, with a hardening tendency. Stocks show a further reduction. Foreign [illegible]

TO REVIVE TRADE I CORK.

PROPOSED INTERNATIONA EXHIBITION.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

CORK, Thursda

In March of the present year the C Harbour Commissioners passed a resolu unanimously advocating the holding of International Exhibition here in 1929. Si that time various occurrences have interve to prevent any real advance been made connection with the project; but from in ries made to-day among the business c munity, I found that the scheme has been temporarily in abeyance, and has been lost sight of by those from whom suggestion emanated.

There is little doubt that an Internatio Exhibition on proper lines would receive whole-hearted support of the business me the city. They are still suffering to a la extent from the trade depression in C which followed upon the destruction Mallow Railway Bridge, when the distr tion of goods by rail from here was pended for fourteen months. The exhibit it is believed, would give a much nee impetus to the trade of the city, and w go a long way towards reducing unemp ment, which is so prevalent.

SUPPORT PROMISED.

Sir John Scott, who, with the Lord Ma Mr. Sean French, T.D., is very largely i rested in the proposal, states that the sch would receive the financial support, not of local firms, but of many cross-Cha houses, who have large trade interests in country. Promises of such support, I informed, have already been received, their source is not, as yet, available for pu cation. So far as I can gather, some towards the carrying out of the plan be expected shortly after the return of Lord Mayor from Dublin, where he has in attendance at the opening of the Dail

MAN SHOT DEAD AT KINGSTOWN.

SON CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Yesterday a young man named Charles Davis, aged 20, was arrested and charged with having murdered his father, Charles Davis (60), by shooting him with a revolver at their home at Mount-town, Kingstown, yesterday.

According to statements made to the police, there had been a violent scene between Charles Davis, senior, and his wife, when the son, saying that he was "tired of it all," drew a revolver and shot his father.

The wounded man rushed from the room into the street. The son, it is said, followed and shot him a second time. Davis, senior, collapsed on the pavement, and was dead when taken to Monkstown Hospital.

Civic Guard Shortall, of Kill-o'-the-Grange, who came up on a bicycle shortly after the shooting, saw the man lying on the ground, surrounded by seven or eight men and women, and jumped off the machine. He was told that the man on the ground had been shot.

"Who shot him?" asked the Guard.

"I did," said a young man, holding out a revolver.

Guard Shortall seized the weapon and placed the man under arrest.

Charles Davis, senior, lived at The Cottages, Mount-town, Kingstown. He was about 60 years of age and the father of nine children. He lived with his wife and some of the unmarried children. He was a chimney sweep, but had been in the British Army, was wounded in the Great War, and enjoyed a substantial disability pension.

It is stated that he frequently quarrelled with his wife. Charles Davis, the son, was employed as a messenger by a Kingstown poultry butcher.

Young Davis when arrested went quietly to the station, and seemed somewhat dazed. When cautioned and told that he would be detained, he replied, "I take full responsibility for it." In the revolver Guard Shortall found two discharged cartridges and one live cartridge. The weapon is a .32 American pattern revolver.

Last night Charles Davis, junior, was charged with the murder of his father.

THE INQUEST.

The inquest will be held at Monkstown Hospital this afternoon at 4.15 o'clock.

Young Davis will be charged at the Dublin District Court at 10.30 this morning.

TO REVIVE TRADE IN CORK.

PROPOSED INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

CORK, Thursday.

In March of the present year the Cork Harbour Commissioners passed a resolution unanimously advocating the holding of an International Exhibition here in 1929. Since that time various occurrences have intervened to prevent any real advance been made in connection with the project; but from inquiries made to-day among the business community, I found that the scheme has only been temporarily in abeyance, and has not been lost sight of by those from whom the suggestion emanated.

There is little doubt that an International Exhibition on proper lines would receive the whole-hearted support of the business men of the city. They are still suffering to a large extent from the trade depression in Cork, which followed upon the destruction of Mallow Railway Bridge, when the distribution of goods by rail from here was suspended for fourteen months. The exhibition, it is believed, would give a much needed impetus to the trade of the city, and would go a long way towards reducing unemployment, which is so prevalent.

SUPPORT PROMISED.

Sir John Scott, who, with the Lord Mayor, Mr. Sean French, T.D., is very largely interested in the proposal, states that the scheme would receive the financial support, not only of local firms, but of many cross-Channel houses, who have large trade interests in this country. Promises of such support, I am informed, have already been received, but their source is not, as yet, available for publication. So far as I can gather, some step towards the carrying out of the plan may be expected shortly after the return of the Lord Mayor from Dublin, where he has been in attendance at the opening of the Dail.

RATES BEHIND.

COUNTY CORK COLLECTOR SUSPENDED.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Thursday.

At a meeting of the Cork County Council to-day Jerome Cahill, the rate collector for Bandon No. 1 District, was suspended, this step being a sequel to the difficulties which the Council has experienced in collecting the rates due throughout the entire county.

The Chairman (Mr. T. J. Broderick) said that no effort had been made to carry out the collection of the rates, and the arrears amounted to £1,800 on the warrant. The Council should, of course, make liberal allowance for irrecoverable rates.

Mr. Barrett said that in cases of other collectors a lot of arrears had been carried over, and it should not be put forward in Cahill's case that there was £1,800 arrears. Other collectors were in just as bad a position as he. He urged that the collector should be given a little more time to close the warrant.

The Chairman said that they adjourned the case again and again to save the Council from doing what they were reluctantly compelled to do that day, and even now, at the eleventh hour, if there was any hope of the Council being safeguarded he would be prepared to consider a suggestion.

Mr Cahill, the collector, who was present in the Council Chamber, was called before the meeting, and asked what explanation he had to give. His reply was that he wished to resign on account of his health.

The Secretary—Are you prepared to clear up the collection before resigning?

The collector made no reply.

Asked by Mr. T. J. Murphy if he could give the Council information as to the condition of the collection, the collector replied that he knew nothing about it.

After some further discussion, it was eventually decided, on the motion of Mr. M. J. Corry, T.D., seconded by Mr. E. O'Neill, to suspend the official, and the Secretary was instructed to send a messenger of his own staff into the district to collect what rates remained to be collected, and to report on the condition of the collection.

DUBLIN PORT BOARD CO-OPTION

At a meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board yesterday Mr. William Field moved that Mr. J. P. MacAvin, ex-Sheriff, should be co-opted a member of the Board, in the place of the late Mr. M. J. Moran. Mr. Field said that Mr. MacAvin's knowledge of affairs of the city and other qualifications would make him a valuable member of the Board.

Mr. MacAvin was unanimously co-opted.

IN THE NORTHERN CAPITAL.

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday Night.

THE people of Northern Ireland took a deep interest in the proceedings of Dail Eireann on Tuesday, and the election of Mr. Cosgrave as President has given general satisfaction. In the highest official circles here sympathy is expressed with Mr. Cosgrave in his difficult position, and admiration for his courage, constancy and breadth of vision is universal. While strong in their determination to remain a separate State, the Northerners wish every success to their Southern neighbours and hope that the Free State will emerge with credit from all its political troubles. Apart from constitutional questions, co-operation is desired in the promotion of industry, commerce and trade, and the further development of business relations should foster the spirit of good-will which is the foundation of trust and confidence. Similar problems affecting economic conditions and social service are engaging the attention of both States, and emulation in good government is certain to produce excellent results. Notwithstanding the gloomy prognostications of pessimists on each side of the border, the signs are hopeful for the growth of prosperity, progress and peace.

A ROCK OF SILENCE.

The autumn session of the Northern Parliament was opened on Tuesday, the proceedings being short, tame and rather uninteresting. It was expected that the Prime Minister would have made a statement on the general situation, but he sat like a rock of silence, imperturbable, sphinx-like, and with only a smile for Mr. Devlin when the Nationalist leader made a delicate allusion to local option. The old story of legislation to keep in line with Great Britain is still being told, and the local House of Commons virtually reflects what has already been done across the water. There is one British measure, however, which the Belfast Assembly is not likely to imitate, and that is the "Flappers" Act, as it is feared here that such legislation might be injurious to the Unionist cause; and the matter is, therefore, to be considered by the party advisers before any decision is made. In this case the mirror is distorted.

The constitution of the House is still the same, as none of the abstentionist Sinn Fein and Republican members put in an appearance. For some time past an agitation has been going on in Nationalist circles to persuade the truants to perform their duty, and a conference was held recently in that connection, but the decision was not divulged. One of them has, however, promised that he will be present, if necessary, to defend the interests of the Lough Neagh fishermen when their thorny problem is brought before the House; but as a departmental committee has been appointed to inquire into the whole question, nothing more than a passing reference will be permitted in the Commons, probably in the form of a question, until its report has been issued. The Hibernian Order, of which Mr. Devlin is the chief, favours the putting of an end to abstention, but there are still a great many irreconcilables in the North, particularly in Tyrone, who cling to impracticable ideals and cherish hopes impossible of realisation under present conditions.

CONTROVERSIAL MEASURES.

Two measures of a highly controversial nature are to be introduced during the present session, and lively times are anticipated. The amending Liquor Bill is only intended to remedy minor defects discovered through the working of the Act, as promised by the Prime Minister, and no far-reaching alterations will be permitted. The temperance party claim that a majority of the members are already pledged to local option, and their attitude should be interesting, but it is not anticipated that they will oppose the Government. On the other hand, a strong appeal will be made for the repeal of the bona fide traveller restrictions, which are held by many to be injurious to tourist traffic, numerous complaints in that regard having been received from visitors. In the present temper of all parties, however, the amendments adopted will be of a harmless nature.

Bitter opposition will be offered to the Trades Disputes Bill, which was read a first time yesterday. No matter how beneficial its provisions may be or how desirable it might be in Great Britain, it is felt, even by a multitude of Government supporters, that it is unnecessary in Northern Ireland, where the most cordial relations exist between Capital and Labour. It is resented as class legislation, and is certain to create widespread discontent and ill-feeling. It is possible to imitate British legislation too slavishly, and it would be better if the Government put forward remedial measures for the glaring social evils patent on every side, instead of entering into a political adventure for which it has received no mandate from the electorate. The Government majority will, however, carry the day, in accordance with the Junior Whip's instructions, given some time ago, that all members must vote officially, no matter what their personal convictions may be. As one member said on that historic occasion, their consciences had to be elastic.

THE WRONG ATMOSPHERE.

It is to be regretted that the members of the Belfast Corporation do not yet appear to realise the gravity of their position as an administrative body. Reform in method is urgently required, but the atmosphere of the Council Chamber, when meetings are in progress, does not lend itself to wisdom in debate. Mutual recriminations only too frequently take the place of sensible discussion, the object apparently being to hurt one another's feelings as much as possible. There are several cliques in the Council, all distrustful of one another, and, so long as that kind of thing is permitted to continue, there can be no hope for the better administration of the city. The report of the McClure Committee is praised by some and condemned by others, and showers of abuse are poured over the heads of its authors for doing what they considered to be their duty. Amidst all the bickerings and quarrellings there are but few gleams of promise for brighter days. The Lord Mayor and others were accused, at the last meeting, of holding secret conclaves, the suggestion being that something was being done that could not bear the light of day, and threats were made to convene public meetings throughout the city to condemn his policy; but his worship was not to be intimidated, and, thumping the table, declared that he was not afraid to go out and meet any body of citizens. Sir William Turner has plenty of courage, and has expressed his determination to conduct the business of the Council in a legal and constitutional manner, no matter who is pleased or displeased.

WHERE IS THE GUILLOTINE?

The position of the Corporation was discussed yesterday in the House of Commons, when the Expiring Laws Continuance Bill was being considered, and the Minister of Home Affairs was twitted about the appointment of Commissioners to take over the civic administration. Mr. Devlin, who was in sarcastic mood, said that Belfast has become a byword in every community in the British Isles, and also referred to the Donaghadee Council, which, he said, was so bad that it desired its own execution, but Sir Dawson Bates had locked up the guillotine in the Home Office and refused to use it. The Minister was accused of using the Emergency Powers Act to suppress twenty-five Nationalist public bodies for political reasons, while he declined to wipe out the Unionist Donaghadee Council and the Belfast Corporation, for which there was ample justification. Sir Dawson, however, smiled cheerfully, and said that he could not appoint Commissioners for the Belfast Corporation under that particular Act, but, of course, that does not mean that he has any intention of doing so. The capital city of the North will never be made to suffer the indignity of being publicly labelled as unfit to govern itself, no matter what else happens. Strenuous efforts are being made to bring order out of chaos, but, in face of opposing elements, it is a difficult operation. At present the civic problem is the chief topic of conversation everywhere.

"DISTRESS AND STARVATION."

The Belfast Board of Guardians has decided to discontinue, within a month, special outdoor relief to all persons whose names have been on the books for a period of twelve months or more; and within three months in the case of those who have been receiving this form of relief for six months. It appears that the present weekly expenditure under this heading amounts to over £43,000, and Mr. John Wilson, J.P., who takes an active interest in this problem, said that people who were on outdoor relief for over a year must be making very little effort to obtain work. In his opinion, the granting of outdoor relief and unemployment benefit has "degenerated" the people, with the result that hundreds of persons imagine that all they have to do is to apply for relief of some kind. No doubt, there are a great many people who prefer the "dole" to work, but Mr. Wilson's condemnation is rather sweeping in its scope. Many families are still in distress through no fault of their own, notwithstanding the improving conditions of industry, and in the poorer parts of the city poverty is still abnormal. The Belfast Guardians are a very sympathetic body, and none more so than Mr. Wilson, watchful of the interests of deserving cases; and, no doubt, the action of the Board is intended to wipe out the unworthy recipients of relief, while the others will be considered on their merits.

The matter was mentioned in the House of Commons yesterday, and it was pointed out that great distress and starvation would result if the Guardians persisted in their proposal. The Prime Minister thought that the situation was satisfactory in view of the reduction of the official unemployment figures, but they do not represent the true position, as there are many thousands of workless men whose names have been removed from the live register for various reasons, and who are receiving no relief of any kind. The official figures are, therefore, useless as a criterion of the real state of affairs.

PEERESS AND LOCAL OPTION.

The Northern Government is happy in having numerous women's organisations to support it in its programme. They are becoming a power in the political world, and their good-will is sedulously cultivated by the Unionist leaders. Their meetings are attended by Cabinet Ministers, and the ladies are flattered by all the attention that is paid to them, especially when matters of high importance are dividing the people. One of the greatest assets of the official party is Viscountess Craigavon. She addressed a meeting of women at Larne on Tuesday night, and in the course of her remarks she warned them of the peril of the local option campaign. She appealed to them not to be divided on this question, and said that everyone wanted to see a sober nation, but the best way to obtain that was by personal example and quiet work. "Over-compulsion of a free people on any subject puts their backs up and often does more harm than good, leading to all sorts of underhand methods to flout authority," declared Lady Craigavon, who then referred to the dangers of a split in the Unionist vote.

CATHOLIC TRUTH CONFERENCE.

RECEPTION IN THE MANSION HOUSE.

ARCHBISHOP OF CASHEL'S ADDRESS.

The Most Rev. Dr. Mulhearn, Bishop of Dromore, presided at yesterday afternoon's session of the Catholic Truth Society's Conference in the Dublin Mansion House, when the Rev. Father Clune read a paper on "The Church Indispensable."

At the reception which was held in the evening in the Round Room of the Mansion House there was a large gathering.

The Most Rev. Dr. Harty, Archbishop of Cashel, commented on the fact that every phase and class of Roman Catholic life in the country, and every political party were represented at their gatherings.

Many of the ladies present at the reception wore the mantilla and black dress

"THE CHURCH INDISPENSABLE."

The Rev. G. Clune, of Ennis, in a paper on "The Church Indispensable," stated that the Church of Christ was a fact which man may not ignore. Even if the grave were the end of human existence, it would still be true that a full and whole-hearted acceptance of her teaching would be the surest, and indeed the only way to happiness; and that, therefore, men should join her. But the grave was not the end: it was the passing over to eternity: it was the beginning, and the endless life that lies beyond was of infinite importance. That life was prepared for and determined by these few passing years, and surely, if the Church prepared and sanctified them for an existence that had no ending, reason dictated that they should avail of all the helps that she could give.

Was it probable that a Church, born in such pain and sacrifice, might be accepted or rejected just as feelings of men might prompt? The mind of the apostles was clear. The man who left the Church to preach another gospel was anathema: he was given over to Satan; he had not God on his side; his works were wicked. The Church of Christ had defined that outside of her there was no salvation. It might be said that this was intolerance. Of course it was. Christ established one Church to lead men to salvation. All other religious organisations that pretend to be Christ's were false, and there must never be toleration for falsehood in the sense of admitting that it was the truth. There was one divinely established religion, and only one, and no amount of tolerance, or broad-mindedness, or freedom of conscience could alter that fact.

A HARD DOCTRINE.

The doctrine that outside the Church there is no salvation was a hard one, and required examination, continued the speaker, who examined two series of texts and statements, which, he said, seemed to be incompatible. Of these, one would go to show that there was no salvation outside the Catholic Church, and the other that every man could reach salvation if he wished. There was a difficulty based upon these apparently contradictory sets of quotations, and its solution must be, not in the sacrifice of either side, but in their reconciliation. The visible Church was the ordinary vehicle of salvation provided by God; every other means was extraordinary, and there was no salvation outside the Church in the sense that outside her salvation was impossible, except by special providence. She was the one and only specially instituted means of salvation. At the same time, it must be borne in mind that the influence of the Church was not restricted within the limits of her own fold. She operated for the salvation of millions who know her not. Those who were de facto outside the Church would not be saved if they were mala fide—that is, if they were outside the Church through their own fault.

INDIFFERENTISM.

There was no place for indifferentism, for the theory that one religion is just as reasonable and as good as another, and, as there was no place for indifferentism, so there was no place for individual non-Catholic forms of religion, or of religious teaching. They were false, every one of them. A person might be bona fide, but that did not affect the falsity of his position. If he were saved, it was not because of his sectarian affiliations, but in spite of them. There was no true Christianity and there was no true Church outside the Catholic Church. The Church, therefore, was indispensable. Men must join her in visible communion. Men must further possess that spiritual life of faith and love, without which mere external membership was dead and worthless.

DANGERS TO THE FAITH.

Going on to speak of dangers to the faith, the speaker referred to the danger of bad example, and said that there was something which was a greater danger, something which was as subtle as the air we breathe, and which deliberately, cunningly, heartlessly worked for the destruction of all morality and all Christian faith among the masses—the world's Press. Not the entire Press, but the most influential part of it, and he included as products of the Press every kind of printed matter. There was no need to stress the fact that the greater part of this Press was controlled by an international organisation, and used for the most sinister of purposes. Where was Christ in the world's Press? Mammon it knew and Epicurus it knew, and Venus, but Christ it did not know. Alas! the world's Press was pagan, starkly pagan. It gave them news considered from a pagan's point of view. It impressed them with the all inclusive importance of fine houses, luxurious cars, magnificent dinners, expensive dress. It introduced them to barbaric music, sensuous dance, demoralising pictures: it told them of the abrogation of the Sixth Commandment, and called it birth control; but of self-control it did not tell them, nor of the command: "If any

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—The anti-cyclone recently over the British Isles has moved away westwards. Secondary depressions, associated with a deepening depression over Scandinavia, will probably cause occasional rain or drizzle in most places, with light to moderate winds, mainly from some northerly point.

Ireland, all Districts.—Moderate northerly winds; rain or drizzle at times in most places; local mist in the early morning; moderate temperature.

South-West Seaboard.—Light to moderate north-east winds, becoming generally dull, with local rain before long; visibility poor at times; sea slight.

Irish Sea, St. George's Channel and North-West Seaboard.—Moderate northerly winds; occasional rain or drizzle; visibility poor at times; sea slight.

In Dublin Guinness Shares rose sharply to 45½, and then declined to 45¼, a rise of 1 1-16 on the day. Courtaulds and Marconis were strong spots.—(Page 4.)

The Conquering Car.

Every motorist in Ireland, unable to visit London, must have felt his teeth water, as the saying is, when he read accounts of this year's Motor Show at Olympia. These exhibits, reaching a total value of one million pounds, display the latest ingenuities and the latest luxuries in the automobile world. Among the six hundred different types of cars are some that are sold for as little as £125 and others—sumptuous vehicles that are as well equipped as a pleasure yacht—which cost up to £4,000. Within three months cars of these models will be selling on the general market, and old models will be offered at reduced prices that will bring motoring within the reach of almost all classes of the population. It is said that one firm has arranged for a production of no fewer than 80,000 cars during the next twelve months, and that something like 5,000 cars of all types will be launched on the British roads every week henceforward. These prodigious figures explain the elaborate character of the exhibition. Firm vies with firm in the contrivance of fresh refinements. Improved "silencers" are shown, promising the general elimination of noise in motoring. New gearing appliances, which enable gears to be changed without the inconvenience of disengaging the engine; new enamels which cannot be scratched, fans which observe and indicate the speed of the wind, and many ingenious attachments for the carrying of luggage—these are but a few of the new amenities of the car.

Among the most significant developments to be observed at Olympia this year is the low build of the latest models. With the increase of speed, the need for lower cars has asserted itself, and with the increased power of the modern engine it has become possible to bring the chassis lower and lower. The outcome is a faster, and yet far safer, vehicle. Of late we have seen the fruit of this tendency on the Irish roads, where the biggest and latest motor omnibuses present a large flat base within a few inches of the ground and could not be overturned in any ordinary emergency. That the very build of cars now strives after safety is not remarkable. In Britain there now are over one and three-quarter million licensed motor cars, and, if the present rate of increase is maintained, this total will be doubled within five years. The imagination needs little prompting to conceive the congestion and the dangers which thus are growing on the roads. Already a man may seek loneliness upon the rolling Downs only to find motor vehicles climbing the roadless slopes and penetrating the most sequestered hollows. The Home Secretary, addressing the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders, on Wednesday, said that driving to the common danger and driving to the common annoyance of His Majesty's subjects alike must be brought under control. To that end motorists must co-operate by the arrangement of a better code of the road, and the law must act by the enforcement of stringent regulations.

Every great advance in civilisation is accompanied by losses, dangers and sentimental bereavements. Motoring has cost many lives and has inflicted many injuries, but its benefits to humanity outweigh its hurts. Already it has made life more liberal for hundreds of thousands of people of the middle classes. The Dublin or Cork wage-earner now can live in rural surroundings, and at the week's end he can take his family at small cost into the green plains beyond the hills; he can see his country's "sights" from Cashel to Galway, and he can play golf on the banks of the Shannon. The wayside inn is reviving, and architecture is resuming its mediæval beauty as men build cottage dwellings among fields instead of terraced villas in narrow streets. While the individual thus is given a large scope of interest, communities, too, are influenced. Frontiers that sprang up in the dark ages after the Roman Empire and its roads were shattered are coming to be seen as irksome hindrances to the free enjoyment of the European heritage. Isolation is at an end, and the more backward neighbourhoods now are linked to the energies of human progress—to renew their youth or to perish from innate decadence. The motor omnibus at night, running along our country roads, is the most picturesque of sights, and seems to suggest travelling lights of home. It has been demonstrated by this year's Motor Show that Britain now makes the best cars. England, however, with its dense population and its shrunken countryside, is a land in which the motor car yields the least of its benefits. Ireland, on the other hand, with its richly varied scenery, would be a motorist's paradise if the improvement of its roads and hotels were made complete.

The Philippines.

After the Spanish-American War of 1898 the United States acquired the Philippine Islands, and Mr. Kipling wrote his poem about "the white man's burden." The experience of thirty years has taught Washington that he was a true prophet. American government in the Philippines is benevolent, but the Filipino is not happy. It is the old question of home rule. The native Legislature, conceded by western notions of liberty, is in perpetual conflict with the white Executive. A despatch from the Correspondent of The Times at Manila indicates that in the present vacancy of the Governor-Generalship—the late Major-General Wood's successor has not been appointed—the campaign against American authority has received a fresh impetus. General Wood's last instruction was that the high proportion of American officers in the police force must be maintained. Now Señor Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate, has "advised" General Nathorst, Chief of Constabulary, to discontinue the appointment of American officers. There are some 150 constabulary posts throughout the archipelago; patrols are constantly on the move in jungle and forest; and the American officers and men speak the dialect and are intimately familiar with native customs. The value of such a service for purposes of "intelligence" is enormous so long as its integrity is assured. If its direction should become incompetent or untrustworthy, it would be worse than useless; and, therefore, the Executive certainly will ignore Señor Quezon's "advice." Furthermore, since the death of General Wood the Senate has refused to approve some of his more important arrangements, including the appointment of Major O. M. Johnson to be Governor of Lanao, which is the most turbulent province in the island of Mindanao. The Filipino leaders demand a native Governor, and the "Association of Students" advocates the appointment of a man whom General Wood had removed from the province "for reasons of policy." Here the Correspondent of The Times explains that most of the universities and colleges are hot-beds of anti-Americanism, in which the seeds of discontent are sown by text-books that are "thinly disguised instruments of pan-Malayan propaganda." On the whole, it appears that, at the end of thirty years of earnest striving, America's experiment in the "democratisation" of an Oriental people in a tropical land has not been an unqualified success. The Legislature, ignoring the blessings of western progress, continues to wage an intensive campaign for "absolute, unqualified and immediate independence," and to obstruct all measures of material development. Especially disappointing is the fruit of the hundreds of high schools and thousands of primary schools with which American zeal for education has studded the archipelago. They are centres not only of political agitation, but of economic mischief. "Every year," says the Correspondent, "tens of thousands of youths are being turned out of the public schools with a smattering of book knowledge—a training that fits them for nothing except subordinate clerical work. They refuse to go back to the land. In every town there is a surplus of lawyers, politicians and petty clerks. In every canefield there is a scarcity of labour."

Many Inventions.

A huge variety of inventions, ranging from a collar stud which cannot be lost to a flying bicycle, is displayed at the Exhibition of Inventions in the Central Hall, Westminster. They include a bathing costume, guaranteed to give safety in the water, an arrangement to turn parcels while they are being tied, which should be very useful to shop assistants, and an electric toast meter, which will toast light, brown or dark, according to choice. A walking stick that shows a red light when it strikes the ground ought to be a boon to pedestrians at night on unlighted roads. There is also an anti-dazzle device for motorists, and a cigarette paper, with perforated ends to prevent tobacco from getting into the mouth of the inexpert or preoccupied smoker. Probably there are practical difficulties which will disqualify many of these ingenious contrivances for the commercial market. As Viscount Burnham pointed out, however, if even only five per cent. of them are successes, the purpose of the Exhibition, which is to introduce inventors to manufacturers, will be fulfilled. Mechanical progress may have some drawbacks, but there is no doubt that it has eliminated many of the harder and more unpleasant kinds of unskilled labour. It tends also to save time and trouble in the business of every-day life. Novelists and "futurists" try to frighten us with the prospect that, by the use of calculating machines and like inventions, we shall become mere calculating machines ourselves; but nobody will be deterred by such forebodings from the enjoyment of an illuminated walking stick in a tramp on a country road, or of a bathing costume which is guaranteed not to bear him to a watery grave. The most popular inventions are those which save labour in the household, and inventors who employ their talents successfully in this field may hope to amass a fortune. A device to conserve the supply of clothes-pegs on washing day, which is among the exhibits at the Central Hall, may be acclaimed ultimately as the outstanding discovery of the Exhibition.

An Artistic Mongrel.

It is improbable that the cinematograph ever will drive the spoken drama from popular favour. Even if experiments to produce talking pictures achieve some measure of success, the actor, living and moving in the same room with ourselves, always will have the advantage of reality. An attempt to combine the best of both worlds, however, has been made in a theatrical production in Berlin. Moving pictures, taken in 1914, showing German troops on their way to the front, are exhibited, followed by scenes of battle and important events in German public life, which culminate in the flight of the Kaiser and the establishment of the Republic. When the necessary atmosphere has been created in this fashion the curtain goes up and the real play begins. The cinematograph again is employed during the progress of the drama in order to introduce mysterious shadows, and between the acts films are thrown on the screen of significant incidents and personages in modern life—including earthquakes, Lenin and Dempsey. This mixture is meant to represent the flight of time, and to drive home the moral of the play—that the more everything changes, the more it remains the same. The German innovation might be used sparingly with advantage by intelligent producers, but inevitably, if it became popular, it would be regarded as a means to prolong the life of plays which had little merit of their own. If a dramatist can depend upon help of this kind, he is less disposed to make exacting demands on the resources of his own fancy. A film of Hamlet's grapple with the pirates might give a more vivid idea of the affair than his letter to Horatio, but it would take the play, even if only for a few minutes, out of "the realms of gold."

FAMOUS TINTORETTO PORTRAIT

PURCHASED FOR MELBOURNE.

Il Tintoretto's famous portrait of Doge Pietro Loredano, which was in the collection of Prince Lichnowsky, the German Ambassador in England at the beginning of the war, has been purchased for the National Gallery of Victoria, Melbourne. For many years the picture was at the home of Prince Lichnowsky at the Castle of Kuchelna, Czecho-Slovakia, but recently it was acquired by Messrs. Knoedler, the London and New York firm of art dealers. Its acquisition by the National Gallery of Victoria came through the Felton Bequest, a gift that has enabled Australia to secure many art treasures.

Il Tintoretto lived from 1518 to 1594. His most famous pictures were "El Paradiso," "The Miracle of St. Mark," "The Crucifixion," and "The Marriage at Cana."

The portrait of Doge Pietro Loredano was painted about 1567. He was the eighty-fourth Doge of Venice. Elected in 1567, he was not expecting the honour, for he was not one of the four candidates. He was on his way home at St. Toma when he was offered "a residence for life on the Rialto." During his Dogeate of three years there was a famine. Riots broke out, and the arsenal was destroyed, and with it the old church and monastery of the "Celestia."

Loredano was a patron of Il Tintoretto, but the artist's pictures, with several other renowned masterpieces, were destroyed in a great fire at the Ducal Palace seven years after Loredano's death.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' HELP SOCIETY.

ENJOYABLE DANCE AT THE METROPOLE.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society will benefit considerably by the dance which was held last night in the Metropole Ballroom, Dublin. It was one of the most enjoyable functions of the year, and the attendance numbered over three hundred. The Governor-General, under whose patronage it was organised, was unable to be present.

Mr. Percival Mackay and his band, from the Riviera and Ambassadors' Clubs, London, gave an excellent performance, and had to respond to numerous calls for encores. Their playing of a selection of old waltzes was much enjoyed, while their rendering of the latest dance music was very effective. Mr. Mackay has selected his thirteen instrumentalists with great care, and every one of them is an accomplished artist. This is the first time that the band has visited Dublin, and the visit involved the cancelling of a London engagement. On leaving Dublin, Mr. Mackay and his band will open the London season at the Kit Kat Club.

Miss Monti Ryan gave clever exhibitions of the "Charleston" and the "Blackbottom," and her eccentric dances were warmly applauded. She was compelled to repeat several of her numbers. Miss Dickie Dixon, in her latest lady's evening dress—double-breasted dinner jacket and black skirt—sang several songs. Mr. Harry Robbins, the xylophonist, received well-merited applause for his skilful playing.

The Rogers-May Band also played excellent dance music.

The ballroom had been specially decorated for the occasion, and presented a very pleasing appearance. The management of the Metropole gave the organisers of the dance valuable assistance. The Hon. Mrs. Porter and Mr. M. J. Nolan, the joint secretaries who organised the dance, are to be congratulated on the success that attended their efforts.

Among those present were—The Countess of Fingall, the United States Minister, Mr. F. Stirling; Lady Arnott, D.B.E.; Sir John Keane, the Contessa Van Cutsem, Captain Arnott, Colonel Branston Newman, Mr. H. W. Pack Beresford, Mrs. Gaisford St. Lawrence, M.B.E., and party; Major Gough, Miss McLoughlin, Mrs. Willeson, the Hon. Mrs. Porter and party, Major J. J. Tynan, British Legion; Mr. M. J. Nolan, Vice-Chairman, British Legion, and Mrs. Nolan; Miss M. Blount, M.B.E.; Captain G. D. Maguire, Captain H. J. Maguire, Mrs. J. Canning Loughridge, Major and Mrs. Bryan R. Cooper, Miss Irene Gore-Hickman, Captain Pilkington, Mr. F. Pilkington, Captain Anderson, Captain Ramsey, Dr. Magennis, Mr. R. J. Duggan, Dr. McMenamin, Commendatore Silenzi, Royal Italian Consul-General, and Signora Silenzi; Mr. and Mrs. T. Purefoy, the Hon. OBITUARY.

MARQUESS OF ABERGAVENNY.

The Marquess of Abergavenny died in Cheshire yesterday, aged seventy-four. He had been an invalid for many years, but it was only a few weeks ago that his illness became serious.

Reginald William Bransby Nevill, second Marquess of Abergavenny, was the son of the first Marquess and Caroline, daughter of Sir John Vanden-Bempde-Johnstone, second Baronet. He was educated at Eton, and succeeded his father in 1915. The heir to the title is his brother, Lord Henry Nevill.

VISCOUNT GUILLAMORE.

The death of Viscount Guillamore took place on Tuesday evening last at his residence, Ingleside Holt, Trowbridge, Wiltshire, in his eighty-first year.

Frederick Standish O'Grady, sixth Viscount Guillamore, son of the second Viscount and Jane, daughter of the Hon. Berkeley Paget, was born at Cahir Guillamore, County Limerick, and was educated at Charterhouse and St. John's College, Oxford. He was winner of the high jump in the "Inter-Varsity" sports in 1868. In 1918 he succeeded his brother in the title. Lord Guillamore travelled a good deal, and was greatly interested in fishing and fish culture. He is succeeded in the title by his cousin, Major Hugh Hamar Massy O'Grady, of Castle Garde, Pallasgreen, County Limerick.

THE VERY REV. DR. M. DONOHOE.

The Very Rev. M. Donohoe, D.Ph., Rector of Knockbeg College, Carlow, died yesterday morning. Dr. Donohoe was forty-five years of age. He was educated at St. Joseph's Classical School, Bagenalstown, at St. Patrick's College, and the Irish College, Rome. In 1905 he was ordained, and for a time he ministered at Carlow Cathedral. He was appointed to the chair of Mental Philosophy in St. Patrick's College, and there for twelve years he laboured with great advantage to the college and its students. In 1920 he was chosen as Rector of St. Mary's, Knockbeg.

MR. WILLIAM LE QUEUX.

Reuter's Correspondent at Knocke, Belgium, states that Mr. William Tuffnell Le Queux, the well-known novelist and journalist, died there early yesterday. Mr. Le Queux was 63 years of age. He had been ill for some weeks.

Mr. Le Queux, as a young man, studied art for a time in Paris, and then took to journalism. For a time he acted as a special correspondent, and afterwards was Foreign Editor of the Globe. Then he forsook newspapers for novel writing, and turned out many volumes, in which espionage played a leading part. He professed an intimate knowledge of the Continental secret service systems. He was a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers and President of the Wireless Experimental Association.

LONDON LETTER.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
THURSDAY NIGHT.

When the House of Commons meets for the first day of the autumn sittings the Government intends to move the usual motion taking the whole time of the House during the autumn for Government business. The Landlord and Tenant Bill, which has still to pass its report and third reading stages, will be the first measure taken. The second reading of the Unemployment Insurance Bill will follow, while there must also be a committee stage for the necessary money resolution of this measure. This bill will be passed through all its stages before the close of the session. Other bills include the Cinematograph Films Bill and the Audit (Local Authorities) Bill, both of which have passed through Committee. It is just possible that the new Prayer Book measure may be dealt with before the sittings end, but this is by no means certain.

Votes and Income Tax.

A point in connection with the proposed extension of the franchise which has hitherto escaped attention is being much commented upon just now. When the younger women get the vote only about one in twelve of the total electorate will be payers of income tax. This means that a somewhat important and highly-taxed proportion of the community must submit to the domination of those who pay no direct taxation.

The Motor Show.

Although the entrance fee to the Motor Show to-day was ten shillings, there was a constant stream of visitors to Olympia throughout the day. Hitherto Thursday in Motor Show week has been a private view day before the opening on Friday, but this year it has been added to the period during which the exhibition is open to the public. The reason for the abolition of the private view is to be found in the desire of several manufacturers to withhold details of their new productions until the admission of the public. The secrets of one new model, in particular, have been carefully preserved, and it was not until the exhibition was officially opened that full details were revealed.

A remarkable feature of the Show to-day was the number of women who were most carefully and thoroughly inspecting the cars, and appeared to know as much about them as the demonstrators. Many of these women came to the Show in their own cars, and perfectly understood what they wanted in their new choice, should they decide to make one. It was noteworthy that the car demonstrators and agents seemed to realise to the full that the women were potential purchasers, and were as eager to show off their goods to them as to the men.

Prince George.

The announcement that Prince George has been appointed to His Majesty's ship Nelson caused little surprise in the Navy, though it was scarcely expected that he would be appointed for Staff duty. Admiral Brand, under whom he will serve, is a brilliant Staff officer and has a reputation for turning out smart men. When the Prince entered upon a naval career the King gave special instructions that no undue favour was to be shown to him, and he must work in the normal way to secure any advancement that may come to him. Once upon a time a member of the Royal Family was given a command very early in life, but this will not be the case with Prince George.

Farmers from Canada.

In the early months of next year a party of farmers from Canada will tour the country with the idea of gaining some knowledge of British agricultural methods. It is probable that this visit will be followed by another, on a much larger scale, of parties of farmers from all the Dominions and from India. The first party may number anything up to two hundred; and it will include a number of women. Its members will arrive in London early in June, and in August will be present at a conference to discuss imperial agriculture, which will be attended by British farmers from all parts of the country. The idea of this conference is said to have emanated from the brain of Sir Pieter Stewart-Bam.

A Woman Candidate.

The Countess of Iveagh has accepted the invitation of the Southend-on-Sea Conservative Association to contest the seat in the by-election caused by her husband's succession to the Peerage. It is highly probable that the Countess will be elected; for with her husband she shared a great popularity in the constituency. Her chances are rendered all the stronger by the certainty that there will be opposition from both Liberal and Labour. Should Lady Iveagh go to Westminster, she will be the third peeress in the House of Commons; the other two are the Duchess of Atholl and Lady Astor.

The Sugar-Beet Harvest.

Returns of the European sugar-beet crops collected by Dr. Miskusch, the Vienna sugar statistician, indicate that the total production of raw sugar for 1927-28 will amount to 4,895,369 tons, as compared with 4,474,411 tons in the previous season. Of the thirteen countries covered in the report Germany leads with 1,668,925 tons, as against 1,664,623 tons in 1926-27. This is rather more than one-third of the whole production. Czecho-Slovakia comes next with 1,183,003 tons, and Poland third with 664,350 tons. Then follow Italy, Belgium, Denmark, Hungary, Rumania, Austria, Sweden and Jugo-Slavia. At the bottom of the list are Ireland, 20,137 tons—an increase of 50 per cent. over the previous season—and Finland, 6,667 tons.

Margarine and Vitamins.

The danger of the big margarine combine's securing a market at the expense of the dairy producers is likely to be met by a big publicity campaign on the part of the producers, who are being guided in this matter by firms in the United States. A scientific discovery recently made will possibly place the margarine firms in an even stronger position than they possess at present. A letter in Nature deals with the possibilities of manufacturing margarine of higher food value than best quality butter. The writers, Mr. O. Rosenbaum and Mr. T. A. Webster, state that the valuable vitamin "A" can be found in the liver fats of sheep, calf and ox, and that these contain on an average as much as ten times the amount of the vitamin found in cod liver oil and from 200 to 1,000 times as much as the amount in butter. Moreover, the oils are free from any flavour, and can be extracted and incorporated into other fats, such as margarine. The writers, therefore, see no difficulty, either scientific or commercial, in producing a perfect biological substitute for butter.

Satin for Brides.

A reversion to white satin as the favourite material for bridal gowns is likely; for so many brides have gone to the altar during the past few years clad in silver or gold brocade, lace or velvet, that a plain, but rich, satin is again coming into demand. Autumn bridal gowns are being ordered in this material, and plain, full and trimmed skirts are likely to be used.

The textile classes arranged by the Co. Kildare Technical Committee are attracting a large number of pupils from the different centres of the county.

ATLANTIC FLIERS SAFE.

RESCUED OFF THE AZORES BY A DUTCH STEAMER.

MACHINE DESTROYED BY FIRE.

TWO-THIRDS OF THE JOURNEY TO PARIS COMPLETED.

MISS Ruth Elder, the 23-year-old "Queen of Beauty," and her companion, Captain George Haldeman, who left New York on Tuesday afternoon in an effort to fly to Paris, are safe.

The machine, the American Girl, came down in the Atlantic about 550 miles north-east of the Azores, having covered about two-thirds of the journey. It is stated in the brief wireless messages that have been received that the oil line which connects the petrol tank with the engine had broken and the machine alighted on the sea near the Dutch tanker Barendrecht, which is landing the fliers in the Azores on Saturday morning. The Dutch steamer, which left Valentia (Spain) on Sept. 21st bound for Houston (Texas), transmitted the messages of the safety of the aviators through the British liner Bayona.

It is known that the American Girl was destroyed by fire, says a Reuter message.

"OKEY."

AIRWOMAN'S MESSAGE TO PARIS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Thursday.

The news that Miss Elder was safe was received direct from herself by the Associated Press Office in Paris, where the following wireless message was delivered at 4.40 this afternoon :—

RADIO BARENDRECHT, VIA BAYARD.

> ASSOCIATED PRESS, PARIS.
> Landed by S.s. Barendrecht, with broken oil line. Both Haldeman and I Okey.
> RUTH ELDER.

Later the following message was received from the steamer Barendrecht :—

> Barendrecht saved crew of flying engine NX 1384, from New York to Paris. Both well. Engine destroyed by fire while saving. Trying to land both at Azores. Position 43.34 North, 21.39 West.

This is roughly 550 miles north-east of the Azores and about 1,000 miles south-west of the Irish coast.

TROUBLE WITH TRANSLATION.

It is appreciated here that, in addition to the telegram which she despatched to the Press, Miss Elder should have also sent an identical message to the authorities at Le Bourget, who were anxiously waiting her arrival.

It was owing to difficulties in translating the English—the letters S.S. and O.K. constituting the chief stumbling blocks—that some confusion arose, and that it was first announced that Miss Elder had landed in Holland. The experts had actually spent a quarter of an hour making calculations as to the length of time taken and the amount of petrol consumed, before a correct interpretation of the message was reached.

The telegram was received at Le Bourget shortly after 5 p.m. ; the hour of despatch was given as 3.8 p.m.

NEWS IN NEW YORK.

ADMIRATION FOR MISS ELDER'S PLUCK.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Thursday.

The bare fact that Miss Ruth Elder and Captain Haldeman had come down in the sea near the steamship Barendrecht, reached New York at noon, just when the streets were full of office-workers going to lunch.

Extra editions of the newspapers were out in a few minutes and the news spread rapidly throughout the city. It was received everywhere with rejoicing, and admiration of the pluck of the adventurous girl and her pilot.

At first it was erroneously reported that the Barendrecht was on a voyage from Valencia to Rotterdam, and from that it was deduced that the aviators would soon be reaching their goal. Not until several hours later was it known that they had come down off the Azores, but even then there was no less admiration for their feat.

Probably the praise was the more hearty because long before the take-off the public had come to believe that a flight across the ocean was never really intended, and that the flight was intended a pretence to gain publicity for some advertising scheme.

When all day yesterday there was no news of any ship sighting the aeroplane, though her course was to follow the ship lanes, it was generally assumed that the American Girl and her crew had come to grief.

Miss Ruth Elder's parents were plainly apprehensive, but Mrs. Haldeman remained serene and confident, and was the least surprised of all those who heard the news of the rescue. "I knew they would be all right," she exclaimed. Mrs. Elder said the same thing, but with obvious relief.

WIFE WHO CRIED ALL NIGHT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Thursday.

From grease-covered mechanics and wind-burned pilots at Roosevelt field, up to President Coolidge himself, the whole American public learned with feelings of fervent joy from the special editions of the evening papers the news of the rescue of Miss Elder and Captain Haldeman in mid-Atlantic.

More than forty hours had passed without tidings of the American Girl, and the anxiety became much more intense this morning. Here, as apparently in Paris, there was nothing but hopelessness until word of the rescue came.

Mr. and Mrs. Elder, the missing girl's father and mother, heard the glad tidings at Anniston, Alabama. Both were almost in a state of collapse, and neither had slept a wink last night. The brothers and sisters of Ruth, who was the baby of the family, had gathered in their parents' home to await the news. The parents bore up bravely, but they had almost given up hope.

"I did my best to feel all right about it," said Mr. Elder, "but my heart began sinking, and I told my wife I thought our daughter was lost. Our joy is now unbounded."

Her eyes sparkling with tears she could not control, Mrs. Haldeman, wife of the pilot of the American Girl, was "almost too happy to speak," when informed at her hotel in New York that her husband had been rescued at sea. She confessed that she had been crying all through the night. "I tried hard to sleep," she said, "but I just lay there wondering when word would come, hoping against hope, that nothing had happened to them. And then word did come," she exclaimed joyfully, tears welling into her eyes. "I am so happy ; so relieved."

There is only one wireless operator on the Barendrecht, which rescued Miss Elder and Captain Haldeman, and he is simply inundated with requests for information.

MISS ELDER TO HER MOTHER.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ANNISTON (ALABAMA), Thursday.

The following message has just been received from Miss Ruth Elder, on board the Barendrecht, by her mother here :—

"We are safe, and no one any worse off. Landed by steamship Barendrecht. Wire you plans later. Love.—Ruth."

KEN WOOD ESTATE.

THE LATE LORD IVEAGH'S GIFT.

The Press Association is authorised to say that the remaining seventy-four acres of the Ken Wood Estate, Hampstead, will be passed to the public under the terms of the will of the late Earl of Iveagh. Some time must elapse before further information can be given, as there are other philanthropic provisions in the will, involving the preparation of much detail.

It is also stated authoritatively that the published figures of the value of the late Peer's estate are exaggerated.

LADY IVEAGH TO CONTEST SOUTHEND.

Lady Iveagh has accepted the invitation of the Conservative Association of Southend to be their candidate in the Parliamentary by-election caused by her husband's succession to the Peerage on the death of his father.

Lord Iveagh represented Southend as a Conservative from 1918, and Lady Iveagh has been closely associated during that period with the political life of the borough. If she is elected, she will be the second Peeress to occupy a seat previously held in the House of Commons by her husband. The first was Lady Astor, who was returned for the Sutton Division of Plymouth in 1919 upon her husband's succeeding to the Peerage.

At the last election at Southend the figures were :—

SOVIET RECALLS RAKOWSKY.

NOTE TO THE FRENCH AMBASSADOR.

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR CONSEQUENCES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Thursday.

The Soviet Government has officially informed the French Government that it is recalling M. Rakowsky, the Soviet Ambassador in Paris. The Soviet Government proposes to replace him by M. Dougalovski, who is at present Ambassador in Tokio, and was formerly Commissary for Posts and Telegraphs.

M. Dougalovski is an electrical engineer who was deported to Siberia under the Tsarist régime, but made his escape in 1908.

THE SOVIET NOTE TO FRANCE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MOSCOW, Thursday.

M. Tchitcherin, in the course of his Note in reply to the French request for the recall of Rakowsky, which was handed to the French Ambassador in Moscow today, says :—"While the Union Government does not deny the French Government's right to demand the recall of a representative of a foreign State, it considers such a demand, especially when it refers to an Ambassador who for two years has successfully conducted in the interests of both States most important negotiations which have yielded very substantial results, should be really well founded."

The Note goes on to say that the Union Government feels bound to declare that it cannot agree to the arguments laid down in the French Note. With reference to Rakowsky having signed at Moscow in the inner party discussion the declaration of August 9, M. Tchitcherin declares that this affair was the subject of an exchange of verbal notes and conversations between the French Ambassador and himself, and that he had been assured that the incident might be considered closed. It is incomprehensibe, he says, why France now reverts to this question again and demands satisfaction.

RESPONSIBILITY DISCLAIMED.

The Soviet Government declines to assume responsibility "in the smallest measure" for M. Rakowsky's recall or the eventual consequences of this recall, and the Note proceeds :—"The U.S.S.R. Government does not deny the French Government's right to demand that the Ambassador of a foreign State should be replaced by another Ambassador, and it cannot do otherwise than take into account the fact of such a demand on the part of the French Government, in spite of the groundlessness of the reasons communicated to the Soviet Government. The U.S.S.R. Government, therefore, considers itself compelled to relieve M. Rakowsky of his duties as Ambassador to France, and to appoint his successor, for whom it now asks the agreement of the French Government."

CARDINAL O'DONNELL.

CONDITION IMPROVED, BUT STILL SERIOUS.

Speaking at the reception in the Round Room of the Mansion House, Dublin, last night, in connection with the Catholic Truth Society Conference, the Archbishop of Cashel (the Most Rev. Dr. Harty) said that since he had come to the hall he had received from Dr. Finnegan, who was in attendance on Cardinal O'Donnell, the following telegram :—

"The condition of His Eminence is improved, but still serious."

The Archbishop said that he hoped they would still continue their prayers for the recovery of His Eminence, who had always been a most faithful supporter of the Catholic Truth Society of Ireland.

They were deeply moved by the illness which had attacked him. If His Eminence were with them he would be very specially delighted with the success of their gatherings

THE NEWS IN ARMAGH.

ARMAGH, Thursday Night.

News reached Armagh this evening that Cardinal O'Donnell had rallied considerably from the early morning attack. It is reported that this evening the distinguished patient is free from pain, and his condition gives somewhat less cause for anxiety.

MISSING SCHOOL TEACHER

FOUND NEAR HER HOME IN BELFAST.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Thursday.

Miss Eleanor D. Boyd, the Leeds teacher, who disappeared from Headingley on Thursday of last week, was recognised at about four o'clock this afternoon walking in the vicinity of her parents' house at Knock, Belfast.

Neighbours who knew her informed her relatives, and she was immediately taken to the house of a friend.

She looked extremely tired, and was at once put to bed. Two doctors were summoned, and they expressed the belief that Miss Boyd was suffering from loss of memory.

This evening it was learned that Miss Boyd had made no statement, except that when asked how she reached Belfast she replied "I walked." She has not spoken since she was put to bed.

MRS. GILL SWIMS THE CHANNEL.

AFFECTED BY COLD AND STRAIN.

Mrs. Gill, of Sheffield, who started from Cap Grisnez at 9.11 on Thursday morning, landed at Shakespeare Beach, Dover, at 12.20 o'clock this morning. Her time was, therefore, 15 hours 9 minutes.

One of the party in the motor boat accompanying Mrs. Gill, in an interview, said :—"The water was somewhat rough during the first hour, and there was a mist hanging over the Channel. The temperature of the water inshore was 57.2, but in mid-Channel it was very much colder. Good progress was made. She used the breast stroke during the rough spell, and through the mist the crawl. As the day wore on the wind dropped and the sea became calmer.

"During the swim across, the first thing that was sighted was a large liner, and shortly afterwards the party in the motor boat were able to discern the South Foreland—about 7 o'clock. The ebb tide took her westerly."

Mr. J. Fellowes, the Rotherham swimmer, took turns in the water with Mrs. Gill, and was with her when she finished at Dover.

Mr. Flower, who was also in the motor boat, went into the water as she waded ashore.

DISTRESSED ON LANDING.

When Mrs. Gill felt the beach beneath her she said, "I cannot stand," and her legs gave way. It was evident that she felt the strain of the swim and the coldness of the water considerably. She was assisted into the small boat and went on to Dover Harbour, and with the help of two of the party was at once taken to the sea bath on Dover sea front, where she had a hot bath.

Mr. Fellowes walked from the beach to the roadway in his bathing costume, and he seemed also to be greatly affected by the cold.

It was arranged for Mrs. Gill, on leaving the bath, to go to her lodgings in Sandgate road.

THE FIFTH WOMAN.

Mrs. Gill is the fifth woman to succeed in swimming the Channel. Her time of fifteen hours nine minutes is longer than that of Miss MacLellan—thirteen hours ten minutes—and that of Miss Ederle—fourteen hours thirty-nine minutes—but is better than that of Miss Gleitze—fifteen hours fifteen minutes—and of Mrs. Corson—fifteen hours twenty-eight minutes.

MISS LOGAN'S FEAT.

NEW YORK COMMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Thursday.

The American public, which had gradually become accustomed to regard the triumphs of its own "stars" in almost every sphere of sport as a matter of routine, especially where England was concerned, received something of a shock when it learned that a young English lady doctor had beaten Miss Ederle's swimming "record" by the considerable margin of eighty-one minutes. Although somewhat overshadowed by the excitement occasioned by Miss Elder's flight, Miss Logan's feat has attracted a great deal of attention. Big headlines in the papers all over the country have announced that Miss Ederle's record has been lowered by an Englishwoman.

Miss Ederle, when she heard the news, said: "I have sent her my congratulations. The more power to her. I hope to give her another mark to shoot at some time."

Many American sporting writers have written in a very congratulatory vein about the swim, commenting on the apparent absence of publicity, and the fact that it was undertaken as a purely sporting venture.

An additional reason for the interest taken in Miss Logan on this side of the Atlantic lies in the fact that she is a niece of Supreme Court Justice Cochrane, of Hudson, New York. Miss Logan formerly lived at Glens Falls, New York, and graduated from the High School there in 1911. She is also the niece of the late Mr. Willis Hills, who went to Glens Falls as the manager of the Hudson River Telephone Company. After leaving school Miss Logan moved to Kingston, New York, with her uncle's family, and later took up medicine, and went to London as a medical student.

FRENCH SCEPTICISM.

According to an Exchange telegram, certain French newspapers question the authenticity of Dr. Dorothy Logan's Channel swim. They say that the semaphore station at Cap Grisnez denies that any person took the water there on Monday night, and states that if any person had entered the water the boats must have seen the start. The coldness of the water is also urged as an argument against Dr. Logan's success.

When Dr. Logan's attention was called to the French comment she said :—"I can vouch absolutely—and all the independent witnesses will do the same—that I took the water at the time stated at Cap Grisnez."

MISS HUDSON TO TRY AGAIN.

Miss Millie Hudson, the Englishwoman who failed some time ago to swim the Channel, has passed through Boulogne on her way to Cap Grisnez. She will make a further effort to swim the Channel within the next few days.

PRIEST AND SLUM OWNERS.

"WHY ARE THEY NOT IN PRISON?"

The Rev. Canon Dolan, a Roman Catholic priest in Sheffield, speaking at a meeting of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in Sheffield yesterday, asked why persons drawing rents from houses where people were living under deplorable conditions were not imprisoned. He asserted that there were many such people in Sheffield, and that they were ordinarily regarded as decent Christians.

"We get harrowing accounts of families living under frightful conditions," he said ; "but who is getting rents from such places? We never hear that."

LIVERPOOL SYSTEM OF TELEPHONE ALARMS.

Liverpool police authorities are to spend £25,000 on a new automatic fire alarm and police telephone boxes. More than 250 combined police telephones and fire alarm boxes are to be installed in the streets.

Police automatic telephone boxes will be placed on the outskirts of the city for the use, not only of the police, but of the public, in case of burglary or other crime.

TERMS OF NEXT LOAN.

STATEMENT BY MR. COSGRAVE.

SUM MAY NOT EXCEED SIX MILLIONS.

FROM JOHN STEEL.

BY THE LONDON CORRESPONDENT OF "THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

President Cosgrave was beaming with satisfaction over his victory in the country and the new Dail, when I called upon him yesterday morning for a talk concerning his plans for the future government of the Irish Free State and the development of the country.

He is now safe in the saddle for another five years, if he cares to stay. For the time being, at any rate, President Cosgrave plans to avoid contentious legislation, and to devote his energies to tightening up the machinery of the Government and completing the political education of the Republicans who have entered the Dail.

He is particularly pleased with the spirit shown in Wednesday's debate, and with the evident willingness of the Republican deputies to accept the facts when placed before them.

THE LOAN.

An immediate task will be the issue of a new loan, which, the President tells me, will probably not exceed five or six millions sterling, instead of ten millions, as previously suggested. This sum is all that is immediately required, in view of the fact that some works, such as the Shannon scheme and the beet sugar development, promise to become productive in the near future.

The new loan will probably be issued at 95, at 5 per cent.—the same terms as the first ten-million loan, which now stands at 96½.

It is expected that the new loan will all be taken in Ireland. This is testimony to the renewed feeling of security, consequent on the definite abandonment of force by the Republicans and their entry to the Dail.

"If I deserve any credit," said the President, "it is for forcing the Republicans to enter the Dail and take up constitutional methods. It is the best day's work I have ever done. The next step is their political education, and I am sure that a couple of years of hard parliamentary work in the Dail will alter the views of a good many of them."

TOURIST TRAFFIC PLANS.

An immediate result of the renewed stability is the development of a big plan of the Irish railways to promote touring in Ireland, appealing specially to America. This railway scheme, which is still in its earliest stages, includes the purchase or lease of a number of Irish hotels, which will be modernised on American lines, offering ample bathroom accommodation, good food and plenty of heat.

It is proposed, in conjunction with the big touring agencies, to work out a system of round tours at inclusive hotel, rail and steamship rates, covering the beauty spots and points of historical and romantic interest all over Ireland.

THE BY-ELECTION.

KEEN FIGHT IN CARLOW-KILKENNY.

On receipt of the writ for the Carlow-Kilkenny by-election, Mr. J. C. J. Murphy, the Returning Officer, yesterday fixed the following dates for nominations and polling :

Nominations ... Saturday, 22nd October.
Polling .... Thursday, 3rd November.

So far as can be ascertained there will be only two candidates for the vacant seat, Mr. Denis J. Gorey, the Government Party's nominee, and his Fianna Fail opponent, Mr. Michael Shelly. Mr. Gorey was defeated in the general election, being eliminated on the second last count, and Mr. Shelly, who had been a Republican deputy for many years, did not seek re-election.

The contest will be an exceptionally keen one. Next Sunday both parties will hold a number of meetings. Virtually every member of the Executive Council will be in the constituency, and they will be supported by at least fifteen other members of the Government Party.

The following are the first preference votes cast in Carlow-Kilkenny at the general election :—

*Cosgrave (Govt.)	13,950
*De Loughrey (Govt.)	2,516
Gorey (Govt.)	2,541
*Derrig (F.F.)	9,891
Delaney (F.F.)	3,229
*Holohan (Farmers)	4,598
*Doyle (Labour)	4,956
Reade (Ind. Labour)	1,348

*Elected.

The quota was 7,172, and the percentage of votes polled was 63.8.

On the division of Mr. Cosgrave's surplus, Mr. de Loughrey received 3,019 votes and Mr. Gorey 1,930. The number was insufficient to put him in the running even for the last seat, for which Mr. E. Doyle, the Labour man, was elected without the quota, the next on his heels being the second Republican candidate. Following is an analysis of the first preference votes cast in September and June :—

	Sept., 1927.	June, 1927.
Government	19,007	14,987
Farmer	4,598	6,971
Independent	—	—
Total Govt. Group	23,605	21,958
Fianna Fail	13,120	10,021
Labour	4,956	8,156
National League	—	2,096
Ind. Labour	1,348	—
Total Opposition Groups	19,424	20,273

LATE NEWS.

SOUTH AFRICAN FLAG.

EFFORTS TO OBTAIN AN AGREED DESIGN.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
JOHANNESBURG, Thursday.

The Johannesburg Star is informed that the Government has approached the Opposition with a view of reaching an amicable settlement of the flag question, and that the Opposition has laid down as essential conditions to negotiations the following points :—

1—That a national flag can only be obtained by consent
2—That the flag must include adequate representation of the traditions of both races.

Official confirmation of the newspaper's statement could not be obtained, all the party leaders being either in Cape Town or on the way there for the opening of Parliament to-morrow.

It is, however, thought that the various suggestions made during the past fortnight by responsible representatives of all the political parties indicate a general desire to avoid a referendum, and, if possible, to arrive at a settlement by agreement.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
JOHANNESBURG, Thursday.

The Rand Daily Mail emphasises that a referendum must be avoided at all costs. The initiative, the newspaper adds, must come from the Opposition, which might propose the enlargement of the Union Jack to a reasonable size on the suggested flag, or produce a flag of their own, which would commend the support of all sections of the population.

This newspaper expresses the view that either of these two courses would be likely to provide a way out of the difficulties.

FOREIGN LOANS IN NEW YORK.

ALL OVER-SUBSCRIBED.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Thursday.

The Prussian loan for thirty million dollars, offered here to-day at 96½, to yield 6.28 per cent., was quickly over-subscribed. A considerable part of the bonds were withdrawn for sale in the Netherlands.

The American portion of the 41,500,000 dollars Brazilian 6½ per cent. loan was offered for subscription by a large syndicate at 92½, to yield 7.10 per cent. This, too, was over-subscribed, as was an offering of 5,000,000 dollars Banca Agricola Hipotecaria of Colombia twenty-year bonds at 92, to yield 6.73 per cent.

THE CURRAGH CRISIS.

SIR HUBERT GOUGH'S LETTER.

General Sir Hubert Gough writes in a letter to The Times :—I shall be grateful if you will accord me space to correct some inaccuracies in the account of the Curragh crisis given in General Callwell's "Life of Sir Henry Wilson." In the first place, General Callwell states on Page 140 that when General John Gough saw General Wilson on the evening of Friday, March 20th, he was proposing to send in his papers at once, but he was persuaded by the D.M.O. to hold his hand.

This is inaccurate. It is true that this advice was pressed on him, but it was rejected. Early next morning General John Gough went to the War Office and handed his resignation, in writing, personally to the Military Secretary, General Franklin. The latter suggested keeping his resignation back till further news was received from Ireland, to which General John Gough agreed, requesting, however, that the Secretary of State and the C.I.G.S. should be informed. Next morning, after seeing me, he wrote to the Military Secretary withdrawing his first letter, but substituting for it another, which placed on record his entire agreement with the action of the officers at the Curragh, and demanded, further, that any action taken against these officers should apply equally to myself. Copies of these letters and notes written thereon in his own handwriting are in existence.

Again, the account given at the bottom of page 141 and on page 142 conveys an erroneous impression. General Callwell states that General Wilson objected absolutely to certain proposals which were under the consideration of the Secretary of State, and, further, that "Gough and he, between them, drafted a letter asking the question, whether, in the event of the bill passing, troops would be liable to be called upon to coerce Ulster in the name of law and order."

This letter was, in fact, drafted by the officers concerned, namely—my brother, Colonels Parker and MacEwen and myself. The same applies to the short note which we drew up in a War Office waiti...ng room after I received the guarantee from the hands of Sir John French. General Callwell incorrectly attributes the joint authorship of this note to General Wilson. It is true that General Wilson came into the room at intervals and made suggestions and inquiries as to our course of action, but he accepted no responsibility for the drafting of the letter or the short note. This statement is based, not on my recollection, but on full notes made by me at the time of these occurrences, and confirmed by other notes made by my brother.

TEMPORAL POWER.

VATICAN'S CASE STATED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ROME, Thursday.

For the first time since the end of the Pope's temporal power in 1870, the Osservatore Romano, the Vatican's official organ, prints a leading article answering the various critics of the article published in the paper on September 21st, describing the situation in which the Pope had been placed since 1870, and sets forth how the Holy See would like to solve the "Roman question."

The article says :—"We do not see why Italy cannot create the State which the Church needs for the exercise of her spiritual functions in the world. Italy alone brusquely annihilated the Papal State, destroying a condition of things which the work of centuries had established, and, therefore, she alone can reconstruct it."

The newspaper adds that such a State should be reconstructed, "not in its former proportions, but at least in the measure necessary to guarantee the visible independence of the government of souls."

Such reconstruction, it is explained, can be carried out by Italy "without committing suicide," as some people maintain, because "the tiny State which would be reconstructed could never destroy Italy." The paper goes on to deal with the duty on the part of Italy, according to moral law, to make reparation by returning what was taken from the Vatican. "If Italy one day will publicly, before the world, accomplish this act of just reparation, she will do honour to her word without the need of foreign intervention."

Evidently speaking in the name of the Holy See, the Osservatore concludes : "We do not invoke foreign powers nor international courts. The Holy See, as Cardinal Gasparri declared during the war, awaits the solution of the Roman question, not from foreign intervention, but from the sense of straightforwardness and justice of the Italian people. To the foreign Powers it will only be left to take note, in the usual form, of what Italy has done in accord with the Holy See."

BIG MACHINERY CONTRACT.

WORK FOR HARLAND AND WOLFF.

A big machinery order, which will take a year to execute, has been placed with Harland and Wolff, Belfast, by the Holland America Line.

The contract is for the machinery for their 3,000-ton liner Stilendam at Rotterdam.

REVOLUTIONARY SUGGESTIONS.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT IN THE NORTH.

3 YEARS' INQUIRY.

FREE STATE SYSTEM RECOMMENDED.

IF the recommendations of the Northern Ireland Departmental Commission on Local Government Administration are adopted, the Six Counties will put into force some of the reforms which have been in existence in the Free State for several years.

The majority of the Commissioners favour the co-ordinating of many local district services and placing them on a county basis. In this connection they advocate the abolition of Poor Law Unions and Boards of Guardians, and suggest the establishment of County Homes.

Health services, they say, should be placed on a county basis under the County Councils, as the county health authority. The dissolution of the smaller rural districts and their councils is urged, but larger rural councils and urban councils should be retained as local administrative authorities.

The Commissioners are agreed that the present system of administering the County Borough of Belfast is uneconomic and cumbersome, but are undecided as to the advisability of appointing Commissioners. They believe that the system could be re-organised so as to remedy the existing faults, and suggest that the committee system might be simplified and that certain committees should be amalgamated.

THE REPORT.

Total Number of Pages	242

It has taken the Commission over three years to collect evidence and prepare its report, which was laid on the table of the Northern House of Commons yesterday afternoon, and several members make reservations in regard to some of the findings. The recommendations cover a very wide area, and if they, or the most of them, receive the sanction of the Northern Parliament, they will revolutionise local administration in the Six Counties. Professor R. J. Johnstone, M.P., M.B., F.R.C.S., was Chairman of the Committee.

ANOMALIES OF THE PRESENT SYSTEM.

GLARING EXAMPLES OF OVERLAPPING.

The Commissioners point out that, under the present system of providing extern treatment outside hospitals, cases may arise where three or more doctors appointed by different authorities, may be in attendance on one patient at the same time. The system of affording outdoor relief also is not free from overlapping, and there is the possibility of relief being granted in the same house by several local authorities at the same time.

There are in Northern Ireland three codes of laws relating to the treatment of blind persons, none of which permits of any co-ordination, and those respecting children present anomalies in respect of the age up to which children may be dealt with. Similar anomalies also exist in the manner in which deaf, dumb, and imbecile children may be dealt with by Boards of Guardians and County and County Borough Councils as education authorities.

The administration of the Diseases of Animals Acts and of the law relating to the supervision of dairies and cowsheds and meat and milk supply is also anomalous, the former Act being administered by County Councils, the latter being under the control of District Councils. Two officers have often to examine the same animal where, with proper co-ordination, one examination would suffice.

PREVENTION OF TUBERCULOSIS.

"There is also an anomaly regarding the administration of the Vaccination Acts. This code of laws," the Commissioners point out, "is purely a measure for the prevention of disease, and as such, it would seem, should be treated as a public health matter by the public health authority. It is, however, administered by Boards of Guardians.

"The last anomaly of a public health nature coming under our notice relates to the prevention of tuberculosis in areas other than county boroughs. In such areas the local authorities for the treatment of this disease are the County Councils. Under the Tuberculosis Prevention (Ireland) Act, 1908, however, the local authorities to whom the disease may be notified are the District Councils, and there is no machinery for bringing cases so notified under the notice of the authority concerned with treatment.

"In rural areas also two authorities deal with Class III. roads—the Rural District Councils and the County Councils. The functions of the Rural District Councils are limited to receiving, making and considering proposals and placing contracts for the upkeep of these roads. County Councils, however, are the authorities for passing such proposals and for the carrying out of any works to be done in this connection."

COMMISSIONER SYSTEM CONSIDERED.

Dealing with the Belfast Corporation, the Commissioners say the size of the committees is such that each member of the Corporation must serve on from four to six committees, which is too heavy a tax on the time of a busy man, and must deter active and competent men from proffering their services to the community. They also condemn the system of appointment by wards. The members of the Corporation at present are overloaded with work, and any further increase, in the opinion of the Commissioners, would be likely to lead to a breakdown.

They considered (1) the possible effective reorganisation of the present system; (2) administration by Commissioners; and (3) the system of administration by burgomasters at present in force in large cities in Northern Europe generally and in many cities in America.

THE COMMISSIONER SYSTEM.

"The economy and efficiency which are stated to have been attained in the municipal administration of Dublin by the appointment of Commissioners in place of the Dublin Corporation and Boards of Guardians," says the Report, "have led to a persistent advocacy of this remedy for all the real and alleged defects of Belfast corporate administration. It is a system of which we have some experience in Northern Ireland, as the Ministry of Home Affairs, having power under the Poor Relief Acts to abolish Boards of Guardians under certain circumstances, and having also the power under the Local Government (Emergency Powers) Act, 1921, to dissolve any other local authority if it has refused or failed or is unable to perform all or any of the duties imposed on it by or in pursuance of any Statute or of any order or direction issued or given by the Ministry in pursuance of any Statute, abolished various local authorities who refused to recognise the Government of Northern Ireland in the first years of its existence. In most instances we believe that such appointments led to increased economy and efficiency, but the experiment was only a temporary expedient, and it must be pointed out that, while a saving in rates may be effected, it is held that the ultimate result of such a method of administration would tend to diminish public interest in local government, an interest which recent legislation has consistently endeavoured to foster.

THE PUBLIC'S PREDILECTIONS.

"While in this democratic age it would be difficult to induce the public to agree to the abolition of elected bodies, and to their replacement in local government by Commissioners, it is possible that occasions may arise where such a course may be advisable as a temporary expedient to get rid of an inefficient or corrupt elect body. To provide for such an emergency, we suggest that powers might be given to the Ministry of Home Affairs to hold a sworn inquiry into the conduct of the body in question, and, if the allegations of incompetence or corruption were proved, to dissolve the body and to appoint a Commissioner or Commissioners for a period of not less than three years. Such an inquiry might be initiated on a report from an inspector of the Ministry, a petition from the local authority, or a memorial from a substantial number of ratepayers, if the Ministry decide, after considering the report or petition, that a prima facie case has been made out.

THE BURGOMASTER METHOD.

"The merits and otherwise of the Burgomaster system, in which the entire administration devolves upon a small number of whole-time paid officials, say, from three to five, are discussed. It is already in practice, with modifications, over a great extent of Northern Europe, in Germany, in Scandinavia, and in various parts of America, but it has never been introduced into the United Kingdom. The main advantage is that a system of undivided and personal control of administration is established. As a corollary, the load of committee work on members of the municipal council is reduced to a minimum. At the same time, an effective stimulus or check is provided for the activities of the administrative officers. On the other hand, popular control in details is largely done away with, and the affairs of the community are in the hands of officials. Should these prove to be incompetent or inefficient, valuable time may be lost and considerable expense incurred before they can be deprived of office. Great as may be the advantages of Burgomaster administration, we are of opinion that it would not be a suitable form of local government to introduce in Belfast, as it entails government, for the most part, by officials, and as such is open to the same objections as administration by Commissioners.

EFFORT TO REORGANISE THE CORPORATION.

"If there is a case for the appointment of Commissioners to carry out the functions of the Belfast Corporation," continues the report, "we have already provided the machinery for their appointment. We have not, however, had sufficient evidence placed before us to decide whether or not the adoption of this course would be necessary in Belfast, and we are of opinion that a decision in this matter could not be arrived at without holding a sworn inquiry into the whole working of the Corporation. We are also of opinion that the present system could be reorganised so as to remedy the existing faults and ensure economic and efficient local government administration within the county borough area."

In their findings the Commissioners say:—

That the present system of administration by the Belfast Corporation is cumbersome and uneconomic.

That the principle of appointing Commissioners to take the place of an elected local authority is undesirable save as a temporary measure, but that power be given to the Ministry of Home Affairs to dissolve any local authority and appoint Commissioners should it be proved that the local authority was inefficient or corrupt.

That the system of "burgomaster administration" in force in many large cities on the Continent and in the United States of America would not be suitable to introduce into Belfast.

That the present system should be reorganised by reduction of the numbers of committees, and by the establishment of the principle of a greater measure of authority being vested in the chief officers of the Corporation.

SUMMARY OF OTHER FINDINGS.

POOR RELIEF: THE DEAF, DUMB AND BLIND.

All relief, whether indoor or outdoor, should be given by way of loan, the Public Assistance Committee having power, in cases where a person, having been in receipt of such relief, is found to have been in possession of property, to recover the amount spent in affording such relief from him or his estate, in the event of his death, the statute of limitations not to apply.

The aged and infirm should get better treatment than other workhouse inmates generally.

All children, wherever possible, should be boarded out.

A Committee of Inquiry should be set up to inquire into the question of Lunacy Reform.

Sane Epileptics, Mentally Defective Children and Adults—One institution for the whole of Northern Ireland should be set apart for these classes. Each class should be segregated. A disused workhouse with land attached might be used for this purpose.

Deaf, Dumb, and Blind Persons—Anomalies which are in existence owing to there being three codes of laws dealing with this subject should be removed, and the limitation of 5s. per week at present payable by Boards of Guardians in respect of the maintenance of adult persons should be removed if and where Boards of Guardians are retained.

MEDICAL AND HEALTH SERVICES.

That the local health services, including intern medical treatment (exclusive of care of the insane), extern medical treatment, public health and housing, be co-ordinated on a county basis, under the supervision and control of county authorities in such a manner that the community will have the benefit of a uniform system of administration, at the same time, as far as possible, leaving the local administration in the hands of local bodies.

That the Council of each county shall be the county health authority.

That the local management of hospitals and infirmaries should not be in the hands of the

STEAMER'S BATTLE WITH GALE.

THREE MEN WASHED OVERBOARD.

The American steamship Antinous (10,000 tons), bearing visible signs of her seventy-two hours' struggle with an Atlantic gale, entered the Surrey Commercial Docks yesterday.

A wave said to be over 200 feet high, carried overboard and drowned three of her crew, and a fourth member had his leg broken.

The captain's launch, two of the lifeboats, and the fore part of the bridge were washed away in the gale, the booms were smashed, and the rails to starboard and around the bridge were hopelessly damaged.

Captain Duncan Stuart and his crew yesterday bore traces of their battle with the gale.

Members of the crew were loud in their praises of the skipper. "He worked like a Trojan," said one. "For three days he stayed out in the gale, keeping us going and seeing that everything was right. He nearly broke his heart when the bosun and the two men went overboard. It was an awful blow; for we had weathered the worst of it by then."

According to William Oldham, A.B., who saw the accident, the bosun, Otto Rebhen, and two seamen—James Roykin and Eric Carlson—were busy plugging ventilators to prevent water from getting to the grain cargo, when a huge wave broke over the side. The bosun clung to a piece of timber, but, although efforts were made to rescue him, the seas were so high that a boat could not be launched, and his comrades saw him washed off the timber.

The Antinous left Mobile, Alabama, on September 14, with a deck cargo of timber and grain. When seven days out she ran into the gale. When she docked yesterday officials of the Mobile Oceanic Steamship Company, the owners, came to congratulate Captain Stuart and his crew upon their seamanship.

THE LATE LORD IVEAGH.

DUBLIN PORT BOARD'S SYMPATHY.

At a meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board yesterday the Chairman (Mr. R. McCullagh) said that it was only meet that some reference should be made by the Board to the death of the Earl of Iveagh. The Board, by reason of the port traffic, had been long associated with the company of which the Earl of Iveagh had been chairman. They were all aware of his abounding liberality, evidenced in various directions, such as improved dwellings, public parks, etc., in the city.

The Chairman then moved that the Board record its regret at the death of Lord Iveagh, and that its very deepest sympathy be conveyed to his family.

Mr. William Field, seconding the motion, said that, as a member for St. Patrick's Division, he had come in close touch with Lord Iveagh's benefactions to the city, and he thought it only fit and proper to convey their vote of appreciation and regret to his family.

The motion was passed in silence, all the members standing.

At the Memorial Service for the late Lord Iveagh held in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, on Wednesday, Senator S. L. Brown, K.C., represented the Governor-General of the Irish Free State, and Mr. Cosgrave, President of the Executive Council, was represented by Senator the Right Hon. Andrew Jameson.

Among those present at the Memorial Service were the Hon. Mrs. B. J. Plunket (niece), Mr. David P. C. Plunket and Miss Hester Plunket (grand-nephew and grand-niece).

The Dublin Boy Scouts' Association was represented by Mr. H. Pack-Beresford, Assistant Commissioner, and Mr. E. G. Glanville, District Scoutmaster.

authorities whose function is the affording of relief to the destitute poor, but under the control of committees specially appointed for the purpose.

Private or semi-private wards should be provided in district hospitals for patients willing to pay special fees. These patients should have the choice of doctor.

That a County Nursing Service be established in each county, based on the County Hospital where such a hospital is established.

That the system of affording extern medical relief under the Medical Charities Act be continued.

That the system requires more local supervision than it receives at present. To bring this about local dispensary committees should be set up in each district, and county health committees should act through these committees.

That the dispensary system should be extended so as to enable persons able to pay reduced fees only to obtain medical treatment.

That medical benefits under the National Insurance Acts be not introduced in Northern Ireland.

That domiciliary treatment of advanced tuberculosis should be discouraged, and, as far as possible, institutional treatment provided as an alternative.

That urban and rural district councils be retained as local administrative authorities for public health purposes.

DISEASES OF ANIMALS.

That in each county there should be a county veterinary officer of health, under the county medical officer of health, who should be responsible for the supervision of the Diseases of Animals Act, and the Dairies, Cowsheds and Milkshops Order, and the Public Health Acts in as far as they relate to milk and meat supply.

That all slaughterhouses be registered with the local authority in whose area the premises are situated.

That it be made mandatory on all district councils to inspect all slaughter-houses in their respective areas.

That the slaughter of all animals whose meat is intended for human consumption be carried out in registered slaughter-houses.

That in the interests of public health, and of the producer, the practice of selling pigs on foot should be encouraged, instead of the customary dead pork trade.

That inspection of pork be carried out at markets and curing establishments until such time as all animals are slaughtered in public slaughter-houses.

That the provisions of the Dairies, Cowsheds and Milkshops Order be extended to embrace all cowkeepers, whether they intend to offer milk for sale for human consumption or not, and that all milk and milk products be prohibited from entering Northern Ireland unless produced under as good conditions and subject to similar regulations as those imposed on citizens of Northern Ireland.

That the Order be extended to embrace all milk products.

LONDONDERRY AND BELFAST.

That the Londonderry Board of Guardians be abolished.

That Londonderry County Borough form an administrative unit for poor relief purposes.

That Londonderry County Borough Council unite with the neighbouring County Councils in the establishment of a County Home.

That it would not be feasible to transfer the functions of the Belfast Board of Guardians to the Belfast Corporation.

That the Belfast County Borough Public Assistance Board, elected in the same manner as the County Borough members of the Belfast Board of Guardians, be the authority to administer the Poor Relief Acts in the City of Belfast.

That the poor relief and medical relief be separated, but that owing to the extra cost which complete separation would entail, the Belfast Union Infirmary be constituted a District Hospital under Section 90 of the Local Government (Ireland) Act, 1898, to be called the Belfast County Borough Hospital, and that the Belfast Workhouse be retained as the Belfast County Borough Home.

A "FURNISHED" HOUSE.

EVADING THE LAW IN BELFAST.

BILL TO CHECK AN ABUSE.

In moving the second reading, in the Northern Parliament yesterday, of the Rent and Mortgage Interest Restrictions (Amendment) Bill, the Minister of Home Affairs said that the object was to cope with two abuses. At the present time a furnished house was outside the operation of the Act, and in consequence of this exemption unscrupulous landlords—and the vast majority in Belfast were not unscrupulous—were in the habit of putting a few sticks of furniture, sometimes one bed and a table, or even less, into a house and letting it as a furnished dwelling. This was an obvious evasion of the provisions of the Act, and clearly one that should be made right. Accordingly, it was proposed to enact that the house shall not be regarded as a furnished house unless it was let with all such furniture, other than plate, cutlery, linen and culinary utensils, as was reasonably required, having regard to the character of the house which it was proposed to let as a furnished one. In other words, it must be a bona-fide furnished house.

The second abuse was one dealing with the one-house owner.

Mr. Beattie said that a landlord could furnish a house under the bill for £5. The bill would not stop the "profiteering" in furnished houses.

Mr. Hanna, Parliamentary Secretary, said that the Government would be willing to consider any amendment to more effectively carry out the principle which the Government had laid down.

The bill was read a second time, and the House adjourned until Tuesday.

NEW HOUSING BILL.

Moving a bill to amend the existing Housing Act, Sir Dawson Bates, Minister for Home Affairs, explained that it provided to increase the Government grants, and otherwise continue the operations of the Housing Act which expired on March 31st next for a further year. Under the present Act grants were made in respect of houses of a maximum area of 950 superficial feet and a minimum of 500 superficial feet. Since 1924 8,217 of these houses were built, or were in course of erection, or were contemplated, and many of them approached the maximum. The Government felt that the greater need was now for smaller houses, and the bill proposed that no subsidy should be granted after next March to houses exceeding 650 superficial feet, and to increase the subsidy in the case of those between 500 and 650 superficial feet. The proposal was that the subsidy should be £80, and this would be increased to £100 provided that the house was built within six months. The new scale would be in operation until 31st March, 1929.

THE RENTS.

Mr S. Kyle (Labour) complained that the Minister had not given any information as to the serious housing shortage in Belfast, which the bill was intended in some way to alleviate. He contended that the type of houses proposed to be subsidised was lower than the standard set by the British Government. There were six millions invested in Belfast savings banks at 2½ per cent., and if the Government got this money, lent it to local authorities at 3 per cent., there would be a reduction of 3s. 3d. per week in the rent of houses. This would enable the workers of Belfast to get houses in the city at from 4s. to 5s. a week rent.

Colonel Woods said that it was an extraordinary thing that no stipulation was made by the Government as to the class of material to be built in the subsidised houses, as foreign-made baths, plumbing work, etc., were being largely used. They were subsidising foreign manufacturers.

THE BRITISH LEGION SCHEME.

Major Shillington said that if the Act passed in its present form Northern Ireland might lose a scheme which was being proposed by the British Legion. They were giving grants of £5,000 to certain areas for the erection of houses for disabled and aged ex-Service men. Belfast might lose this if equal opportunities were not afforded, and he suggested that the Minister should meet a deputation and discuss the matter.

THE SLUM AREAS.

Mr. Joseph Devlin said that they had lost sight of the one fact that ought to be the chief purpose of all housing schemes—the clearing away of slums of a great city. They were really only perpetuating the slum system by subsidising houses as they were doing. People were leaving bad houses and going into new ones, and the worse houses were finding new tenants. No Government—the British, the Free State, or the Northern Ireland Government—would ever solve this problem by subsidies. They would have to make some sacrifices to clear away slum houses.

Mr. Hanna, replying to the debate, said that the bill furnished a method by which thrifty people might become the owners of their homes.

The second reading was passed without a division.

LOUGH NEAGH FISHING.

The Minister of Commerce, Mr. J. Milne Barbour, replying to Mr. Devlin, said that his attention had been called to Press reports of a meeting at Ardboe on 8th September, addressed by members of the Northern Parliament of divergent political views, when a resolution was adopted calling upon the Prime Minister and Government of Northern Ireland to introduce in the present session new legislation to restore to the fishermen of Lough Neagh the fishing rights, which the resolution declared were theirs for many generations. The property in the Lough Neagh fisheries formed the subject of an action, which was ultimately carried to the House of Lords. No question as to the validity of a decision given by the highest legal tribunal of the country could be raised either in that House or elsewhere. It was not proposed to introduce legislation on the subject, but he was prepared to invite a conference of all interests concerned with a view, if possible, to ascertain whether any common agreement could be arrived at.

Mr. Devlin said that had it not been for the latter part of the reply he would have proceeded to introduce legislation himself, but if agreement could be reached by a conference, it would be more desirable. He asked when it was proposed to call this conference.

The Minister of Commerce—At the earliest convenience of the different parties who are to be brought together.

Mr. William McMullen (Labour)—Is the Minister aware that, in the opinion of the most eminent authority in Ireland, Mr. T. M. Healy, that the waters of Lough Neagh have been stolen from the common people? (Laughter.) I would suggest to the Minister that he should read the book "Stolen Waters."

Mr. Devlin—If he has not read it I will send him a copy of it.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION.

The Minister of Home Affairs, replying to Mr. Devlin, said that it was the intention of the Government before the term of office of the present Parliament expired to introduce legislation abolishing the principle of proportional representation in so far as it applies to the election of members to the House of Commons in Northern Ireland, and to re-establish the former principle of election on the basis of single member constituencies. In view of the undertaken given by the Prime Minister in the House on Wednesday to allocate a day for discussion, it would be out of place to enter into details at present.

Mr. Devlin asked if the Prime Minister or some other Minister, when the discussion took place, would state what would be the character of the constituencies. Would he recite to the House details of the constituencies which are to take the place of the present constituencies?

Sir Dawson Bates—That will be a matter that will appear when the bill is introduced.

Mr. Wm. M'Mullan (Labour) asked if the Minister had seen a deputation from the Shankill Unionist Association to settle the boundary of West Belfast. (Laughter.)

Mr. Devlin—What I want to know is, when the discussion takes place upon the alternative method of carrying on elections, will we have before us the names of the constituencies and the details?

Sir Dawson Bates—No, sir; not until the redistribution scheme is brought into the House.

Mr. Kyle—May we take it that the Government is about to rig the constituencies of Northern Ireland?

No answer was returned.

The price quoted at yesterday's fat pig market in Tipperary was 48s. per cwt., an increase of 1s. on last week's quotations.

FINANCES OF FREE STATE.

MAY BECOME CREDITOR COUNTRY.

The Monthly Review of the Midland Bank contains a long article on "Free State Trade and Currency," which deserves careful study. The writer arrives at the conclusion that "the Free State may with the passage of years become a creditor, rather than a debtor, country on her international balance of payments."

He deals first with the adverse trade balance for the years 1924-5-6. Taking the fact that at the end of August last the adverse figure stood at £12½ millions, he says that in the twin facts—the persistence of a large import surplus and the decline in the Free State's principal exports—there would appear on the surface to be ample food for thought by those most anxiously concerned about the country's material welfare.

He goes on to find out how the merchandise import surplus has been paid for. "A year and a half ago some official estimates of invisible imports and exports were published in the Irish Trade Journal. These applied to the year to March 31, 1925, and a table has been constructed on the basis of the published figures, together with statistics for the year 1925-26, furnished by the courtesy of a Government Department, and with unofficial estimates for 1926-27."

The principal item among the invisible exports is the income received from investments abroad, which, even when allowance is made for the payments on foreign-owned Irish investments, is sufficient to cover nearly half the import surplus on merchandise account. Emigrants' remittances and pensions, payable in one direction by the British Government in respect of war services and in the other by the Free State Government to ex-constables, provide further substantial sums. Against these and sundry minor items susceptible of estimate or determination must be set Irish payments abroad in respect of land purchase annuities. Altogether these items yield a credit surplus of £8 to £9 millions, a figure which, according to the Irish Trade Journal may be somewhat below the truth.

INVESTMENT HOLDINGS.

There is still, however, a debit balance, unofficially estimated, in 1927 of £10.3 millions covered by other invisible items and capital transactions.

The writer assumes that this may have been covered in a wide variety of ways, such as substantial sales of Irish-held investments. The figures in the banks, it is true, show a considerable decline in investment holdings since the end of 1924, and it would appear unlikely that the purchasers of the securities disposed of were resident in the Free State. Secondly, some investment of external funds in the Free State may have taken place during this period. . . Private investment, taking the form of the erection of factories or establishment of branches in the Free State by externally owned and controlled business undertakings, must also be reckoned with under this heading.

It would not appear likely, however, that transactions of this kind have reached very large dimensions. Passing from funded to short-term capital movements, it may be that credits extended by banks and business houses in Great Britain, Northern Ireland and elsewhere to Free State customers have grown relatively to the amount of accommodation granted in the other direction. Furthermore, Irish-owned deposits in British and other banks may have fallen off in comparison with externally-owned balances in Free State banks. On this question it would be imprudent to hazard even the most tentative guess, and on the basis of the available material all that can be said is that the Free State would appear to have sold assets or borrowed abroad to a not inconsiderable extent during the three years to March, 1927.

This fact may or may not be sufficient cause for disquietude. Many countries have borrowed heavily in the course of their history and have arrived at their present stage of economic development largely with the aid of external loans. Whether the process of borrowing is good or ill, from the national point of view, depends on the purpose to which the proceeds are applied. If expended in the acquisition of reproductive assets or on schemes of development which, in a broad sense, yield a return more than sufficient to cover interest and sinking fund payments, then clearly the initial borrowing has given cause for complete satisfaction. If, on the other hand, the proceeds of the loan are swallowed up in current consumption, the transaction has imposed a fresh burden on the country without adding in any way to its resources.

THE NEW CURRENCY SYSTEM.

Dealing with the bearing of the adverse trade balance on the change in the currency, the writer says:—

These considerations give added interest to the new currency system now being inaugurated in the Free State, for the scheme can only stand the test of time provided that the country's balance of payments is maintained in equilibrium without the aid of borrowing or sales of assets for purposes of pure and immediate consumption.

As the Irish pound is firmly tied up with the British, the trend of Irish prices must follow the British, and, therefore, the world, level fairly closely. For if Irish prices rise disproportionately to British, the demands for sterling to meet payments from the Free State into Britain will tend to expand; larger quantities of London funds will have to be procured, and on balance notes will be paid in for that purpose. Thus contraction will set in in the Free State and prices be pulled down.

On the other hand, if Irish prices are unduly depressed, sterling balances will tend to accumulate, and the desire to convert these into Irish funds will involve an expansion of note issue, making for an upward adjustment of the price level. The system will be much the same in essence as that by which the price level in Manchester is kept in harmony with that operative in Bristol, and by which it is rendered impossible for inflation to occur in Glasgow and not in London.

Technically, however, the Irish Free State will be on a special form of sterling exchange standard, and, as long as the system operates and convertibility is maintained, the Irish pound can move neither to a premium nor to a discount in terms of sterling. It can do so only if the issue of notes against sterling, on the one hand, or the convertibility of the currency notes, on the other, is suspended.

A CREDITOR.

Now, from this it follows that sooner or later the price level in the Irish Free State must conform to the British, if it has not already done so. It is difficult to find evidence on this point, the only available Free State index being that for the cost of living, which is slightly higher than the British. Consequently some measure of deflation may perhaps take place in Ireland.

When this has been accomplished, if indeed it is necessary at all, it will be safe to leave the balance of payments to take care of itself, for convertibility of the note issue cannot be maintained indefinitely side by side with continuous and heavy external borrowing for the purpose of current consumption.

Some continuance of external borrowing may be necessary for a considerable time to come, but there is nothing inherently damaging in that process of itself, and, provided the funds be economically utilised, there would appear to be no reason why current incomings should not in course of time be sufficient, or even more than enough, to cover current outgoings. In other words, the Free State may, with the passage of years, become a creditor, rather than a debtor, country on her international balance of payments.

POISONED MILCH COWS.

LAND DIVISION TROUBLES IN LOUTH.

Claiming £75 at Dundalk Circuit Court for the poisoning of three milch cows, Bernard Ward, Bolios, Kilsaran, stated in his evidence that he had got some land from the Land Commission for which there had been a great many applicants, and he believed that his animals were poisoned because of spite held against him owing to his successful application.

Judge Doyle gave a decree for £60.

BOOM IN BRITISH MOTOR CARS.

11 FIRMS SELL YEAR'S OUTPUT.

POOR ATTENDANCE ON SHOW'S FIRST DAY.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Thursday.

A gold-plated chassis may have been the most spectacular exhibit at Olympia to-day, but it did not prevent crowds from collecting around the stands containing cars of a more workaday description.

The attendance at this year's Motor Show, it is estimated, will be about 300,000, and if to-day's number—7,227—is below the average for each of the nine days the Exhibition is to remain open, the explanation is supplied by the fact that the charge for admission to-day was ten shillings, whereas on Fridays and Saturdays it is only half-a-crown, with a charge of five shillings on the other days.

That many of the people who paid ten shillings had other money to spend is shown by the business transacted during the day. One British firm sold its complete output in half an hour. Production for the 1928 season had been planned at 3,500, and the agents of the firm booked the entire supply. It may be mentioned that the car referred to is of 14 h.p., with six cylinders.

FAMILY CARS POPULAR.

Apart from business between manufacturers and the various agents throughout England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, quite an appreciable amount of buying was done by private motorists. Attention was particularly paid to the moderate-sized models, and family cars showed continued popularity.

Although most cars are now supplied with equipment of the most complete description, some hundreds of stands at Olympia are devoted to various fittings, so that the wishes of the most exacting motorist can be supplied.

The new models are mainly of the six-cylinder variety, and some excellent examples of British, Continental and American workmanship are on view. Not all the new cars, however, have six cylinders; for there are several entirely new cars of low horse-power, but with capacious bodies fitted with four-cylinder engines, and two of them promise to prove very popular, judging by the amount of attention they attracted on the opening day.

SALES BEFORE THE SHOW.

Even before the Show very large contracts were entered into. It is expected that last year's figure of £50,000,000 worth of orders will be beaten this year by British cars alone.

The largest British manufacturer has arranged for the production of more than 80,000 cars, valued at £16,000,000. One distributor has committed himself to contracts for £6,000,000 worth of cars, and another, whose area covers London and the home counties, has agreed to take £3,000,000 worth of one particular make.

In addition to the firm mentioned who sold their whole output in half-an-hour, ten manufacturers in the Midlands have sold the whole of their year's output. Export orders are flowing in.

WOMAN THE BARRIER.

MISSIONARY DIFFICULTIES IN MAHOMMEDAN LANDS.

"You might make all the men Christians, but unless you get the women you will not get the country Chrisianised," the Archbishop of Dublin said yesterday when presiding at a meeting of the Hibernian Auxiliary of the Church of England Zenana Missionary Society in the Dawson Hall, Dublin. His subject was the position of women and girls in Mahommedan lands, and he expressed great pleasure at the large number of young girls present.

"Women in those lands," he said, "are to a very large extent, slaves, or, if that is too strong a word, they are kept in a state of imprisonment or confinement. Women there are the down-trodden half of humanity, the lower portion of God's creation; that is the view of the Mahommedans. When you recognise that fact you must also recognise that the effect that woman produces in those lands is very marked. The country is particularly stagnant, particularly conservative; it is very hard to get things to move in regard to the advance of Christianity. Until you make the women Christian you cannot make the country Christian. The Christianisation of Mahommedan lands depends, to a large extent, on the women missionaries who can go into the women's quarters. Unless there are Christian women there cannot be Christian marriages or homes for Christian children."

Miss Graham, of Krishnagar, Bengal, said that since her return home on furlough she had addressed over a hundred meetings, but until that day had not seen so many girls at any of them. There was much work to be done at home by those who could not go to the mission field. The need for recruits for India was very great, and unless women doctors and nurses went out there women patients had no proper medical attention.

Miss McCurry, who has worked for thirteen years in the Anglo-Chinese School at Foo-Chow, gave an account of her work there among the daughters of the wealthy Chinese and of officials.

Canon Lewis-Crosby presided at a meeting at night, when an address was given by Miss Mary Darley, who has worked in the Chinese mission field for thirty years. At the time of the outbreak of trouble in China, when Miss Darley and her fellow-workers had to leave Kienning at two days' notice, the Chinese Christians who had belonged to the mission came forward and undertook to carry on all the work the missionaries had to give up, and up to the present time, Miss Darley said, that work was going on under the supervision of these native Christians.

DEATH SENTENCE ON YOUNG IRISHWOMAN.

A young Irishwoman was sentenced to death at the Old Bailey, London, yesterday, for the murder of her five weeks' old child. She was Mary O'Donoghue, a single woman, aged 24, who was a waitress at an hotel in Fairstock place, West London, when the child was born.

She was taken to St. Pancras Infirmary, and on coming out she rented a room in Euston road. Some time afterwards the landlady became suspicious, and O'Donoghue's room was broken open. The body of her baby, strangled with a napkin, was found in a box under her bed.

It was alleged that in a statement she said she killed the child because she had no money and no one to look after him.

The jury recommended her to mercy, and the Judge said that it would be forwarded to the Home Secretary.

PIGS IN DEMAND.

There was keen demand for pigs at the Carrick-on-Shannon pig fair, buyers attending from Dublin, Cork, Limerick Waterford, Cavan and Northern Ireland. Prices showed an advance, and the speedy clearance of the fair is taken as an indication that still further improvement in the prices for pigs will be shown. Light pigs made 70s. per cwt. (dead weight), while heavy porkers made 65s. and upwards. Young bonhams sold at £3 and upwards per pair.

EMIGRATION FROM LEITRIM.

LIVING ON MONEY FROM AMERICA.

In his report to the Leitrim County Board of Health, the Superintendent, Home Assistance Office, reported:—The tide of emigration that set in five years ago has practically drained the county of the youth between the ages of 18 and 30 years. Whole families have left. In other cases the husband has gone, and left his wife and family behind. In quite a lot of cases the wife has gone to America to earn, and has left husband and children to shuffle along at home. Years ago we sympathised with the hard lot of emigrants forced to leave their native land; now we congratulate those who are fortunate enough to get away, and the sympathy is for those left behind.

One result of this emigration is that the land is neglected and is fast returning to a wild and useless state. Those of the population left behind are not fit to till the land, and what ground is under crop is mostly some kind and tender bit of meadow near the house, where crops can be put in with a minimum of labour. Drains are clogged, farms waterlogged, grass sour, and we glibly talk of improving the breed of cattle.

MONEY FROM AMERICA.

The average Leitrim farmer is depending for a livelihood on the money sent home to him from his relatives in America. If he has sons or daughters in America helping him out, he manages to scrape along; if he has not he is in a bad state. This will be all right when America is booming, but let there be a period of depression in trade, with consequent unemployment and stoppage of the flow of money across the Atlantic, and imagine what is going to happen.

Most of the food consumed in farmhouses is foreign food. Tea and bread is now the staple food of the farmers' families, varied now and again by making it bread and tea. In 95 per cent. of the farmers' homes no meat is used. Where they use meat it is American, Canadian or Chinese bacon, and the marvel of it is that they will tell you it is better than Irish—"there is more dip in it."

Listen to the farmer telling how he is robbed paying rates for the upkeep of the roads. What is destroying the roads? Is it not lorries bringing in bakers' bread and foreign bread from places outside the county? In a little town served by the railway one can count sixteen bread vans weekly. The road-side shop and the shop on wheels have brought the loaf to the farmer's door. At the present rate of progress we shall soon see delicatessen shops in every village and kitchens on wheels on every by-road, and, of course, to find out the will of the people, we shall have a referendum or election to see in what order or rotation the meals will be served. Glib-tongued shop-keepers will entreat the farmer to give his first preference to "hot dogs and sour krout," "goulash," "burgoo," "chop suey," "hard tack," and "canned willy."

A LEITRIM BURIAL.

In olden times we heard that the Gael supplemented all his prayers to God by the petition that he might find death in Eirinn. When his descendant—the little farmer on the Leitrim hillside—dies, what happens? He is washed and lathered with Sunlight soap, shaved with a German hollow ground, clothed in a shroud manufactured in Manchester, a crucifix and Rosary from Italy are put in his hands, the coffin, "of polished Irish oak, handsomely mounted," is camouflaged Norwegian fir, and the mountings are either Cornwall tin or German nickel; he is lowered into the grave with a rope brought from India, and the shovel that places the clod over his remains is made in Canada. In fact, the one 100 per cent. pure native and genuine article—Irish and proud of it—is the Irish worm. When will these people learn that there are worse places than Leitrim; that contentment is a greater gift than riches?

The report was approved.

INSANITY IN FAMILY.

CO. TYRONE RAZOR ATTACK: DEATH OF BROTHER.

Thomas O'Donnell, aged about 60, of Ballinatibbert, about seven miles from Omagh, who was found in the kitchen with his throat cut on Wednesday morning, died in the Tyrone County Hospital yesterday. He lived on a lonely farmstead with his two sisters, Annie and Bridget O'Donnell, aged from 50 to 60 years, who were found dead, in their night attire, in a laneway near the house, their bodies bearing terrible wounds inflicted by a razor, which was found nearby.

At the inquest on the sisters, as already stated in the Irish Times, the jury returned a verdict that they died from hæmorrhage and shock, the result of wounds to the throat.

Yesterday an inquest was held on Thomas O'Donnell, when it was stated that a brother of the deceased had been in an asylum for over twenty years, and that a cousin had died in an asylum. A sister of the deceased was in an asylum in America. There was no family connected with them which had not some trace of insanity. Thomas O'Donnell was always worrying about hunger and poverty.

Dr. McCauley, house surgeon of Tyrone County Hospital, said that Thomas O'Donnell made the following statement to him:—"I want to die. It is all over now; everything is scattered. My poor sisters; what came over me, anyway? Why did I do it? They were very good to me, and would not let the wind blow on me if they thought it would hurt me."

The witness asked the deceased man did he know what had happened, and Thomas O'Donnell replied that at about 2 o'clock on Wednesday morning his head was "in a bad way," as he had not slept any for the previous fortnight. He got up and got a razor, and went to where his sisters were lying. When they saw him they got up and struggled with him, which made him worse. They fled from the house, and he followed them down the lane, but he could not remember any more.

Dr. McCauley added that death was due to shock and hæmorrhage, following the wounds.

A verdict in accordance with the medical evidence was returned, the jury stating that the wounds were self-inflicted while temporarily insane, and that they were of opinion that the deceased man killed his sisters while in this insane state.

BETTING LOSSES

DEBTOR'S PLEA IN COURT.

Admitting betting losses at Newcastle Bankruptcy Court yesterday, a haulage contractor claimed that his bets on horse-racing were an investment to increase capital.

"It is gambling, isn't it?" said the official receiver. "It is legal gambling, so it must be an investment," argued the debtor. He added that he was induced to have final "flutters" because he was given a certainty.

"And the certainty came in last!" suggested the registrar, to which the debtor assented.

"THE CHURCH UNCONQUERABLE."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Rev. Owen F. Dudley, in his lecture before the Catholic Truth Society, is reported to have said that "but for the lusts of Luther and Henry VIII., and their followers, it is questionable whether the tragedy of the Reformation would ever have come about." Father Dudley refrained to mention that, when the Reformation was brewing in England and Germany, the Papal See was occupied by Rodrigo Borgia, who assumed the title, Alexander VI. An impartial reader of history must acknowledge that the Reformation in the first instance was a protest against the moral corruption which made it possible for a Borgia to become crowned head of the Catholic Church. We hear this protest in Wyclif, in Savonarola, whom Pope Alexander condemned to be burned as a heretic, and in Luther's tirade against indulgences. I ask Father Dudley which, after all, was the better Catholic—Savonarola or the father of Caesar Borgia?—Yours, etc.,

U.S. MARKETS.

VIOLENT ADVANCE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Thursday.

Stocks opened firm. Bullish operations were temporarily curtailed when liquidation and bear pressure commenced in several Industrials, notably Hudson Motors and Greene Cananea Copper, but when this selling "dried up" the forward movement was resumed, with great violence in many instances. The success of pool operations in Specialities encouraged constructive operations in the recognised leaders, the most noticeable being General Motors, American Smelting and Refining; and U.S. Steel, American Machine and Foundry jumped 26 points, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis 14, U.S. Cast Iron Pipe 8, Rossia Insurance 7½, R. H. Macy 7, Abraham Strauss 7½, and Colorado Fuel and Iron and Houston Oil 5. Railroads were bought on the prospective large increase in the earnings in the latter months of the year, and other issues purchased in anticipation of a brisk upturn in general business. The market closed strong. Government Bonds irregular; Railroad Bonds quiet. The day's sales totalled 1,747,000 shares.

NEW YORK COTTON.

COTTON opened easy and 12 to 8 points lower, due to hedge selling and the absence of frost in the South-West; but the market rallied owing to the trade and commission buying on a forecast for light frost over the belt. Covering by shorts and New Orleans buying on expectations of bullish consumption figures assisted the rise, and at the close the tone was very steady, with quotations showing gains of 35 to 42 points. Spot quiet at 35 points higher. New Orleans spot 41 points higher.

KEEN COMPETITION AT THE SALES.

From Our Travelling Correspondent.

NEWMARKET, Thursday Night.

It is possible that I was wrong yesterday when I wrote that Lightning Artist failed to stay home in the last quarter of a mile of the Cesarewitch. It has since become known that he was struck into from behind approaching the bushes, and the ligaments of both legs so badly cut that it is unlikely that he will be able to run again this season.

There has been no space earlier this week to refer to the Bloodstock Sales. They were a miscellaneous lot in many cases that were offered during the first two days, but there were plenty of people looking for likely horses to make jumpers, and anything that filled the bill sold well. Then this morning there was a splendid sale for Mr. James White's brood mares, many of which were well-bred, and mated with fashionable stallions. The competition was very keen for these, and many of them fetched twice as much as they would have if offered during the lifetime of their owner. I expect there will be very keen competition to-morrow for Call Boy's half-brother, the Comedienne colt, when he comes up with the rest of the late Mr. Frank Curzon's horses in training. I understand that he has been valued at £15,000.

By comparison with the previous afternoon, it was quiet on the Rowley Mile to-day, though the crowd present was a good one for the third day of the meeting. The afternoon was dull to begin with, but the sun came out later, though it never dispelled the haze which made the visibility moderate throughout.

GONE TO STUD.

Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen's Highborn II. retired from the Turf with an easy victory to his credit over his only opponent in the Challenge Stakes, Nipisiquit, Fete waiting for a race to-morrow. He beat her in a common canter, and now goes to Captain Bell's stud at Lambourn, where his fee has been fixed at the reasonable one of 98 guineas. The champion sprinter of his year, and coming from the male line of St. Simon, with a cross of Flying Fox and St. Frusquin (his dam's pedigree), he should be a valuable acquisition to the list of stallions at the disposal of English breeders. He is nearly full for next year already.

Efforts, I believe, are being made to induce M. Boussac to allow Asterus to stand in England, but it is unlikely that he will. The heavy super-tax on stallion fees which have to be paid in this country, and from which there is exemption in France, make the latter country a more profitable one in which to exploit a good stallion.

If the day did not yield a counterpart to the series of exciting finishes provided by the afternoon of the Cesarewitch, we had one or two very close things. The Middle Park Plate was won by Lord Derby's Pharamond by a head from the Aga Khan's Parwiz, with Maer Hills, a short head away, third. Thus was Lord Derby compensated for the slight mishap to Fairway which prevented him from running for this race. Incidentally, the acquisition of this stake, which is worth over £3,000, enables Frank Butters to shift Taylor back to his old position of second in the winning trainers' list.

A MODERATE CLASS.

As Pharamond is a long way behind Fairway at home, we can take it that the class was below the average of the race. Pharamond has done well since beaten in his last race here, and is a much lengthier colt than Sickle was at his age. Parwiz is also a bigger, lengthier, and heavier colt than was his brother, Manna, when he ran in the Middle Park. He was very deficient in muscle when he ran at the last meeting here, but he has put it on since, and there still is a great deal of room for improvement in him. He does not, however, show the same delightful quality that Manna did.

The form, as it stands, can hardly be called first-class, because both were receiving a pound instead of giving three to the filly, Maer Hills, and she was only beaten a head and a short head, which suggests that she would have won at weight for sex. She did not strike off as quickly as the others either. Pharamond jumped off slightly in front of Parwiz, and they ran close together until coming down the Bushes hill, when Parwiz got his head in front. The other, however, came again to beat him just a little cleverly. Musical Prince never threatened danger, as I believe he was not thought to be at his best. Exeter, who is coming along well, finished fourth. Both Pharamond and Parwiz are by Phalaris, and the victory of the former has given his sire a good lift in the winning table.

MASKED MARVEL'S LOST FORM.

The winner of the Cambridgeshire of two years ago, Masked Marvel, disappointed badly in the Heath Plate, for which he was well fancied, and after holding a leading position for six furlongs, he dropped out and finished second last. This was not Cambridgeshire form, and Masked Marvel to-day was not the good colt he was two seasons ago. The Belgian mare, Kitty, once invincible in her own country, also ran badly, and suggested that she is tired of racing, and has no chance in the Cambridgeshire. The race was won by that good little Hainault filly, Captain Boyd-Rochfort's Hunt the Slipper, who had been third in the Duke of York Handicap last Saturday, and here came from behind to win nicely by a length, and the same from Granpau and Invermark.

An Irish-bred daughter of Cygnus, in Dunlavin Lass, trained by Captain Cyril Kirk, won the Witchford Three-Year-Old Selling Plate comfortably. There was an accident in the race for the Lowther Stakes, when at the beginning of the rails Arran Chief jinked and bolted out of the course, his jockey, R. James, incidentally spraining his wrist badly. Sledmere then went on in front, but coming down Bushes Hill Pons Asinorum flew past him and beat him five lengths, a good performance on the part of the handsome son of Tredennis.

FOHANAUN COUGHING.

Incidentally, the trainer of Pons Asinorum, W. Earl, tells me that his Cambridgeshire candidate, Fohanaun has had a slight bout of coughing, and, when he was over that, rapped himself slightly at exercise. He is said, however, that these minor mishaps are not thought prejudicial to his chance the week after next. Fohanaun was the subject of all sorts of disquieting rumours this morning.

POBIEDA BEATEN.

A daughter of Silvern, in Silvern Isle, bred at the National Stud, for whom Sir Abe Bailey gave 1,000 guineas after she won a high-class seller on the July course, beat the greatly-fancied Pobieda in the Suffolk Nursery. The Aga Khan's grey was in front most of the way, but Silvern Isle, with Eagle's Pride's jockey, Dines, up, got up at him. Stadacona ran only moderately, and may not have been seen at her best.

A newcomer with a tall reputation, who was well backed, Mr. J. B. Joel's Green Ray, a sister of Green Fire, made mincemeat of the small opposition in the Bretby Stakes, and won easily from Lawful.

It will be a quiet day to-morrow without the Middle Park Stakes, usually the centre piece of the last afternoon. THE HERMIT II., who won in a canter at the last meeting and missed the Clearwell on Tuesday, runs for the Prendergast, which he should win. With Book Law, who is coughing, out of the way, Coronach's improving brother, CALEDON, should win the Royal Stakes.

FETE runs for the Kennet Stakes, where the most dangerous rival may be the French colt, Cramick. The Exning Welter is a very open event, and the best may be the Portland Handicap winner, MAYRIAN.

TRALEE.

ANOTHER BIG ATTENDANCE.

Judging by the two splendid days' racing at Tralee, which followed two similarly successful days at Listowel last week, there is no need to be pessimistic about the future of racing in the South of Ireland. Yesterday there was an increased attendance, the sport was interesting throughout, and there was even more life and animation about the proceedings than on Wednesday.

Wild Thistle had no penalty in the Directors' Hurdle Plate for his Listowel win, which was on the flat, and it was anticipated that he would score here. He ran well up to a point, but then broke down, and with Mr. Tully's horse out of the way there was a very interesting finish between Queen Chow, Bonnie Braes and Say before the first-named prevailed. It was certainly a due reward to Mr. F. Mitchell, the veteran Midland trainer, to win a race, as he is a staunch supporter of the pastime, and travels all over the country. Mr. Mitchell will be remembered as the owner and rider of the famous Admiral, who was winning races before many present-day racegoers were born.

Lisworney, by virtue of the number of races he has run in of late, has been referred to as the "iron" horse. He was turned out again for the Ballybeggan Steeplechase, and in a great set-to with Brackbawn scored by a neck. The Maddenstown Lodge candidate, Rippling, was preferred to Aileen Aroon for the Stewards' Plate, and in the hands of E. M. Quirke he won in very easy style.

Marchesi followed up his previous day's success by also capturing the Kenmare Steeplechase, after winning which he was allowed to remain in the possession of Mrs. Darby Rogers, nobody being disposed to make a bid of £75 for him. Odds were laid on Kildarra Boy to win the Kerry Plate, but it took all Joseph Canty's artistry in the saddle to get his mount home half a length in front of Bonnie Baby, who, at the distance, looked to have the race won. Pharamond jumped off in front of Parwiz, Musical Prince, Maer Hills, Kista and Orator-in-Law, and thus they ran for half a mile, when Parwiz improved. Racing into the dip Parwiz took up the running, attended by Maer Hills and Pharamond, with Exeter heading the others. In a thrilling finish between Parwiz, Maer Hills and Pharamond, the last-named regained the lead in the last few strides, and won by a head; a short head separated second and third. Arran Chief held a clear lead of Pons Asinorum and Crown Emblem until coming on to the racecourse, where the leader ran out and unseated his rider. Pons Asinorum then took up the running, but Sledmere was dashed into the lead soon afterwards. Sledmere was beaten in the dip, where Pons Asinorum challenged, and, drawing out clear, the last-named won easily by five lengths; eight lengths separated second and third. Walinson was fourth.

Cardamon twice broke through the tapes, and Idle Hour was fractious. Treasure Island was none too well away, the first to break the line being Silvern Isle, in the centre, who jumped off with a slight lead of Stadacona, Thirlmere (on the outside), Pol Roger, Pobieda and Grandmaster until passing the bushes, where Pobieda improved, and, racing into the dip, took up the running from Thirlmere, Silvern Isle and Grandmaster. Silvern Isle came again on meeting the rising ground, and, heading Pobieda in the last few strides, won by a head; half a length separated second and third. NEWMARKET SALES.

GRAND PARADE COLT FETCHES 4,000 GUINEAS.

Yesterday morning's Bloodstock Sales at Park Paddocks, Newmarket, were of far greater importance than those of the previous days, as the catalogue included the whole of the brood mares and foals which belonged to the late Mr. James White's stud and a number of notable horses in training. Business was decidedly satisfactory where Mr. White's mares were concerned, as 25, in number, they realised 19,640 guineas, and the eight weaned foals brought 1,421 guineas. Top price, 2,800 guineas, was given by Major Rutherford for the seven-year-old Phyllis Dare, covered by Gainsborough.

Only one of Mr. J. B. Joel's lot was sold. This was the two-year-old Broadwalk, who realised the big sum of 4,000 guineas, the buyer being Mr. John Dawson. Priory Park was withdrawn at 2,900 guineas, Nice Prospect at 1,750 guineas, and Playboy at 1,200 guineas. Later lots made only trifling prices.

The total realised during the day was 28,570 guineas. Details:—

Without reserve, by order of the Receiver, Mr. H. Tansley Witt, mares and foals from the Foxhill Stud, the property of the late Mr. James White.

COURSING.

KILMOGANNY.

SOFT HARES AND LONG SLIPS.

Weak hares, as a rule, mean long slips and poor coursing, and, the majority of the hares which were driven out at Kilmoganny yesterday being rather soft and the deliveries unusually long for a short park, the quality of the sport left much to be desired.

It was, perhaps, the least enjoyable of the numerous meetings which have been held at this venue, and with so many casualties among the game, and the coursing no more interesting than dog racing, the big company had little to enthuse over. It was an exceptional experience for visitors to Kilmoganny, where the sport is generally the best of its class, and hard luck on the club that they were not able to furnish a better day's sport.

A feature was the success of the Kildare courser, Mr. Harte, who with five dogs won one of the stakes and divided another. He was represented by a couple in the Kilmoganny Stakes for bitch puppies, of which Hidden Pride proved the better in all respects. It was thought that in the deciding course with Orveen she would not have speed enough for her, but in a fine set-to the Kildare bitch got the turn, and, scoring the second very smartly, she never left the issue in doubt in a short spin. But, smart though the winner is, she may not turn out to be as good a puppy as Hidden Jew, which divided the Currahill Stakes with Mr. T. O'Brien's Odd Blade, another useful stamp of young dog, sent on from Ballincollig.

It is not often that one sees puppies running in stakes of this sort, but these two ran their courses extremely well, and may figure prominently at other meetings later in the season. Hidden Pride, however, is a determined bitch, who will likely develop into a good open country greyhound before the season has advanced far.

A versatile performer is Champagne Charlie, who, after a short season on the track at Shelbourne Park, turned out at the Coolock meeting and won a stake. At this meeting he also raised four flags in capital style. There were some useful puppies in the Trial Stakes, but not one of them could have shown pace over Champagne Charlie, which went a good bat and found hares to suit him.

There were not any "fliers" in the All-Aged Stakes. On the first run down the best of them seemed to be Mirabeau, which Mr. Matthews brought on from Limerick, but he failed to run on, and in the deciding course was well led and out-footed by one from Mr. Sawtell's kennels in Melksham Queer Times.

BOXING.

HILL AND MORACCHINI AT QUEEN'S HALL.

A programme, which included four international contests, was staged at Queen's Hall, London, last night. The principal fight was that between Johnny Hill (Scotland), the British Fly-weight Champion, and Francois Moracchini (France). The contest was made at 8st. 1½lb., and at the weigh-in early in the day it was seen that Hill held an advantage of 2lbs.

The advantage of promoting a boxing tournament at Queen's Hall was a colossal fiasco. There probably were 1,000 spectators, and the hall echoed in its emptiness to the audible comments of those present.

Hill and Moracchini were billed to fight for a purse of £1,250, but it was certain that there was not anything like that amount of money in the hall. Details:—

15 ROUNDS—JOHNNY HILL (SCOTLAND) v. FRANCOIS MORACCHINI (FRANCE).

Hill gave a brilliant display of hard hitting in the opening round. Moracchini is famous for his powers of resistance and recovery, but he was a punching block for Hill, and took considerable punishment. During the third round Hill landed to the jaw on several occasions, but Moracchini fought on.

Moracchini began to fight with ferocious abandon in the fourth round, and he landed a fine left hook. The Frenchman was ready to take Hill's punches, being more concerned with attack than defence. As the fight went on Moracchini took more and more punishment. His ability to withstand it was due to his stamina, but never before had he been so outclassed in an English ring.

In the eighth round Hill lifted his opponent on to the ropes with a terrific left jolt. Then the Scot punched away with both hands, but still Moracchini stood up to terrific punching, and lasted out a terrible round.

In the ninth round Moracchini was reduced to pulp, but was still fighting, when the referee, Jack Bloomfield, stopped the fight, awarding Hill the verdict. Moracchini then was in a very bad state.

CAMOGUIDHEACHT.

DUBLIN V. MEATH.

The inter-county match, Dublin v. Meath, takes place at the Elmgrove Grounds, Cabra, at 3.30 p.m., on Sunday next. This is the first of a series for the cup and gold medals. Dublin has made an exhaustive pick from the city teams, and a great game is expected to be the outcome. Meath has had a successful League competition some years ago, but a single team selected from various centres now does duty for the county.

Undoubtedly, they have the stronger side, and it will be interesting to see how they fare against their more experienced sisters from the Metropolis. Mrs. Sean O'Duffy will referee.

GOLF.

THE LADIES' FOURSOMES.

MISS CECIL LEITCH BEATEN.

The field in the Ladies' Foursome Tournament, promoted by "Eve," was reduced to four couples at the conclusion of yesterday's play at the Ranelagh Club, London. All the celebrated players were eliminated with the exception perhaps of Mrs. Percy, who was Scottish champion two years ago, and Miss Leetham, who has played a good deal of county golf for Yorkshire.

Among the defeated in the fourth round yesterday were Miss Cecil Leitch, who has won many national titles, and her partner, Miss Diana Esmond, the girl champion in 1926. Their partnership did not blend well. They were 3 down at the fifth, but won the next three holes to square the match. It was hole about to the end, and the issue was carried to the twentieth green before a decision was reached. Here Miss Esmond fluffed her approach, and that caused the loss of the hole and the match to Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Crombie (13). Details:—

FIFTH ROUND.

Lady Alness and Miss Leetham (11) beat Miss Knox-Gore and Mrs. Barton (15), 4 and 3.

Mrs. Percy and Miss Strain (14) beat Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Latham Hall (10), 4 and 3.

Mrs. Heriot Glen and Mrs. Clapham (15) beat Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Crombie (13), 4 and 2.

Mrs. Greenlees and Mrs. Coats (11) beat Miss Barr and Miss Nahum (8), 3 and 1.

ASSOCIATION.

COUNCIL MEETING, F.S.A.

A meeting of the Council of the Free State Association was held yesterday, when permission was granted to the Leinster League to play the Scottish Alliance on Saturday, 22nd October, at Dalymount Park, and to the Munster Association to play the Scottish Alliance at Cork the following day.

Bohemians secured permission to play Glasgow Celtic at Dalymount Park on 28th April next.

In connection with the case of W. Burns, who was suspended by the Irish Free State Association for breach of contract with the Shelbourne F.C., correspondence was read from the United States Association, which stated that all their local associations had been warned that this player was under suspension. A letter from Burns and a cablegram from the Falls River Club, asking the Association to raise the suspension, was also read. The Falls River Club seeks to have the player transferred to their club from the Philidelphia Club.

It was agreed that the suspension on Burns should stand, and that his letter, along with the cablegram, should be sent to the United States Association for necessary action.

A commission was set up to enquire into the alleged misconduct at the Free State League match between Dundalk and Shamrock Rovers, at Dundalk.

It was decided to exempt Cobh Ramblers, Cork City, Drumcondra and Bendigo from the Qualifying Cup, and include them in the Senior Cup competition.

Draw for the Qualifying Cup, matches to be played on or before 5th November:—

Munster—Victoria Celtic v. Barrackton United; Bohemians v. Cork Celtic; Waterford Celtic v. Cahir Park; Mallow v. Fermoy.

Leinster—Mullingar v. Frankfort; Strandville v. Vickers'; Edenville v. University College; St. Mary's United v. Richmond Rovers; B.S.U. v. Glasnevin.

LAWN TENNIS.

THE CHAMPIONSHIPS AT QUEEN'S CLUB.

There were two remarkable matches in the fourth round of the Men's Singles event in the Covered Court Championships at Queen's Club, London, yesterday. The "eliminating" rounds were finished, and the last four remaining are D. M. Greig, E. Higgs, S. M. Jacob, and G. R. O. Crole Rees.

First Higgs had a hard and protracted match with Nigel Sharpe, whom he beat by three sets to two, after losing the first two. Then the outstanding match of the day was staged between D. M. Greig and C. H. Kingsley. These two experienced players thrilled the large crowd by their excellent tennis. Each won sets, until in the decider Greig wore down his opponent, and won the set 6-4 for the match.

The semi-final round of the Women's Singles was also reached, but the games resulted as expected, and Mrs. John Hill will now meet Miss Eileen Bennett, and Miss Goldsack will oppose Miss C. Hardie.

ANNADALE.—The winter session opens on Saturday next. Applications for membership, which is contingent on membership of the Fairview C.Y.M.S., should be made to Hon. Sec., Annadale Lodge, Fairview.

CATHOLIC TRUTH SOCIETY.

man will be My disciple, let him deny himself, take up his cross daily, and follow Me." No; but it was creating an atmosphere which was definitely hostile to the faith, and it was doing poor, wretched humanity the supreme injustice of hiding from it the one consideration—namely, loyalty to Christ—which could soften pain and inspire to nobleness and unselfishness of life. But even that did not explain away bigotry and mala fides. There were those who deliberately and with their eyes open viciously attacked the Catholic Church. For them there was little excuse. But where hostility was not of the vicious sort it was a sobering thought, and might well be borne in mind, that if Christ founded one Church, and only one, there were about three hundred false and absolutely unauthorised forms of so-called Christianity in these islands.

IRELAND'S DESTINY.

If their faith and loyalty were to be really living they must think of those who lived in error and darkness. They saw what blood and treasure had been poured forth a few years ago in some nameless cause, and surely this should be an infinitely greater zeal in the high cause of Jesus Christ and His Church. Ireland would never become one of the Great Powers of the earth, and they certainly would ambition no such thing for her if she would thereby fall to the appallingly low level of the nations they called great. If it be in a special way Ireland's destiny to work for the faith, they should make every effort to supply workers for the harvest field.

With a sound Catholic Press in Ireland and a system of well-stocked, well organised, Catholic-spirited libraries, they might look forward to a deeper and firmer grasp of the faith and a greater intensity of Catholic life, both public and private, and, in consequence, they might hope, with God's grace, for a greater zeal for the conversion of the non-Catholic and the pagan.

Mr. Michael Christie, moving a vote of thanks to Father Clune, said that the Catholic Truth Society was making a valuable contribution to the cause of Catholicism in the country by bringing forward considerations of the Church and its various attributes.

An important matter was the spread of good literature for the deepening and intensifying of the spirit of Catholicism. He also referred to the leakage from the Church—not so much of the normal leakage, such as people who emigrated with a very superficial knowledge of religion—but something more serious—namely, the number of Catholic men and women in the country who sold their own and their children's birthright for a mess of pottage. He called attention to the work of the Catholic Protection and Rescue Society of Ireland, from which it appeared that proselytising agents spend over £60,000 annually to rob their people of the faith, and they had generally about 3,000 Cathlio poor, chiefly women and children, under process of perversion.

THE FAITH.

Mr. Barry Egan, T.D., seconding the vote of thanks, said that the Catholic Church was indispensable to them, and they, as part of it, were to his mind indispensable to the Church. The Faith that Irish Catholics had had handed down to them was the most priceless gift that God could have endowed them with, and it was for lay Catholics to spread that Faith in their own different ways. He referred to the Catholics of France, and said that their lives were an example. They live in an atmosphere of moral and material degradation; but still their lives shone out to a degree which he had never met before. They wanted to develop Catholic organisations in this country.

The Bishop of Dromore, in putting the vote of thanks, said that the Catholic Church had often been charged with intolerance; but Father Clune had shown how reasonable the Church was. He urged Catholics to support the missionary work of the Church, as those who went away on the Missions had no means of living except by the help sent to them.

The vote of thanks was passed amidst applause.

THE RECEPTION.

In the evening a reception was held in the Round Room of the Mansion House. There was a large and distinguished gathering, including members of the Hierarchy and clergy, the President and Ministers of the Executive Council, the Speaker and the members of the Dail, members of the Consular Service, and representatives of the professions.

The visitors were received by the Most Rev. Dr. Harty, Archbishop of Cashel. There was a large number of ladies present, and many wore the conventional dress of the Papal Court—the mantilla and black dress, which lent a distinctive, if somewhat sombre, note to the gathering.

The Archbishop of Cashel said that at the ordinary meetings during the week they had had a larger number present than they ever had on former occasions. That showed that the work of the Catholic Truth Society was being more and more appreciated by the people. He was delighted to be able to congratulate the Executive Committee of the Society on their great success—they had done wonders, and they were all deeply grateful to them.

One thing that pleased him above all others was to find that their gatherings were Catholic in every sense of the word. Every phase and class of Catholic life in the country and every political party were represented. (Applause.) They wanted all their Catholic people at their gatherings, and, thanks be to God, they were all coming.

He was deeply grateful to all who had come there that evening, and he gave them his blessing, and prayed that before that time twelve months they should have their grand Cardinal in full and perfect health in their midst. (Applause.)

Those present included:—The Bishops of Dromore, Raphoe, Achonry, and Waterford; President Cosgrave, accompanied by Colonel O'Reilly, A.D.C.; Professor J. M. O'Sullivan, Minister for Education; Mr. M. THE CULWICK CHORAL SOCIETY.

At the annual general meeting of the Culwick Choral Society, held at the Abbey Lecture Hall, Lower Abbey street, Dublin, last evening, Mr. A. G. Wolseley presiding, the Treasurer's financial statement was submitted, showing that the new season was being started with a considerable balance in hand. Reference was made to the work of preparation for the ladies' choral competition and the chief choral competition at the National Welsh Eisteddfod, which the Society undertook. The Society's success in both these competitions is a matter of gratification to all Irish lovers of choral music.

It was arranged to give two concerts during the season 1927-1928. Miss Dorothy Silke, the well-known soprano, has been engaged as soloist for the first concert.

There are vacancies for male voices in the Society, and applicants should communicate with Miss Culwick, 62 Upper Leeson street. Those desirous of becoming non-performing members of the Society can obtain particulars on application to the Secretary, 1 St. Lawrence road, Clontarf.

IMPORTED FOREIGN GOODS.

The Council of the Irish Industrial Development Association (Incorporated) at their last meeting (Sir Nugent T. Everard in the chair), decided to draw to the attention of the Customs authorities the practice which appears to be rather generally followed of importing foreign goods under misleading titles, contrary to the Merchandise Marks Acts, and to ask the Commissioners to instruct Customs officers at the various ports and border stations to examine "free" goods as well as "dutiable" goods for false markings.

THE MAKING OF ORDERS.

MASTER'S JURISDICTION QUESTIONED.

The question of the jurisdiction of the Master of the High Court was again before the Court, arising out of an action of the Royal Bank against John Hanna. The present application was one on behalf of the defendant for an order that the order of the Master declaring certain moneys well charged on defendant's property, and directing the sale of certain premises, be set aside and discharged on the ground that the Master had no jurisdiction to make such order.

The Court, in view of a memorandum from the Master, intimated that the application must be argued on the basis that the case had been dealt with by the Master as an uncontested case.

Mr. Henry, K.C., who, with Mr. Walker (instructed by Mr. W. G. Armstrong), appeared for the defendant, said that according to Article 64 of the Constitution judicial matters were in the control of the judges, the whole authority of the Master being confined to Sub-section 2 of Section 5 of the Courts Officers Act. The authority of the Master was such authority as was conferred on him by Statute or by Rules of Court. The summons in the present case was a summary summons, the procedure in respect to which was set out in Order 3 of the Rules of Court. Order 3 gave the general procedure and powers under summary summonses that could be brought into court, and Order 13 defined the orders that the Master might make. That order gave the full measure of power or authority that the Master had to make orders, and counsel submitted that the summons which had been brought in this case did not come within Order 13, and that the Master had no jurisdiction to make any order in this case, which was a full-blown mortgage suit where every relief was asked for.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne—What meaning do you give to Order 13, Rule 2, Sub-head 13 ("an order for final judgment in uncontested applications")?

Mr. Henry—Where there is a final judgment application, and it is not contested, the order gives the Master power to give judgment in that case.

Mr. Phelps, K.C., who, with Mr. Wilson (instructed by Mr. A. W. Purefoy), appeared for the plaintiffs, stated how the rules came into force, and contended that, no matter what the judgment of the Court might be with reference to the order for sale, the part of the order that dealt with the appointment of a receiver could not be attached, because the whole of his friend's argument was based on this, that the whole jurisdiction of the Master was set out in Order 13.

Mr. Henry—I accept that. There was a deed appointing a receiver.

Mr. Wilson followed on the same side, and, Mr. Walker having replied,

The Court reserved judgment.

SALE OF CO. CORK FARM.

ALLEGED INTERRUPTION OF BIDDING.

A case was heard in which William J. Cronin, cycle agent, of Millstreet, Cork, appealed from an order of Circuit Court Judge Kenny approving the sale of a farm of 33 acres, situate at Killowen, in the division of Macroom, Co. Cork, to John Shea for a sum of £1,800.

The action had been brought by the plaintiff for the purpose of setting aside the sale of the farm, which was portion of the assets of Andrew Hickey, deceased, for a sum of £1,735. The action was brought against the purchaser, John Shea, and the widow of the deceased, who, as administratrix, sold the farm.

The evidence showed that on the day of the sale, while the bids were being made at the auction, John Shea, jun., on a bid of £1,735 by Mr. Lenahan, solicitor, of Kanturk, shouted in a loud voice: "Did you come here to-day to grab land?" On this interruption the bidding ceased and the sale stopped. On its resumption after half an hour there were no further bids, and Mr. Lenahan was declared the purchaser. Mr. Lenahan then disclosed the fact that he had been bidding for Mr. John Shea, sen., the defendant.

The Court dismissed the appeal, and confirmed the decision of the County Court Judge.

Mr. John Bartley (instructed by Mr. John Guiney, solicitor, Kanturk) appeared for the plaintiff and appellant; Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C., and Mr. Binchy (instructed by Mr. J. J. Lenahan) for the defendant, John Shea; and Mr. H. Moloney, K.C., and Mr. James Reardon (instructed by Mr. Purcell) for the defendant, Katherine Hickey, respondents.

EDENDERRY RENT CASE.

SUPREME COURT JUDGMENT.

Reserved judgment was delivered in favour of the appellant and defendant in the case of Moore v. Davy, the appeal having been brought from a judgment of the Special Appeal Commissioners, varying the decision of the Circuit Judge for King's County in an action brought by the plaintiff, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, against the defendant, a shopkeeper, of Edenderry, in respect of a dwellinghouse occupied by the plaintiff under a yearly tenancy at a rent of £22 per annum, payable half-yearly.

The plaintiff, it appeared, had claimed £77 rent alleged to be due from 1st May, 1922, to 1st May, 1925. She had habitually paid the poor rates in respect of the premises down to about March, 1921, when she declined to pay them, having regard to the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1898.

The defendant tendered the rent due for the seven and a half years ending 1st May, 1925, less the poor rates which he had paid during that period. The Circuit Judge gave a decree for £70 11s. 11d., the amount of rent due, less £8 8s. in respect of poor rates, and on appeal the Special Commissioners varied the decree by increasing the sum awarded to the plaintiff to the full amount claimed in the writ.

The Court now allowed the appeal, with costs of the appeal and costs in the Court below, holding that the rent reserved in 1912, £22, was not the standard rent of the premises, but was an "increased" rent under the Act of 1923. They also held that the excess of £22 above the standard rent was irrecoverable, unless the excess was not greater than the increase permitted by the Act of 1923. In this case there was no increase of rent permitted, because there had been no notice to quit served and no notice of increase of rent served. The increase was imposed upon the tenant against his will. They accordingly reversed the judgment of the Special Commissioners, and affirmed the decision of the Circuit Judge, but varied it with regard to the gales of rent accrued before 1923.

Mr. Walter Callan (instructed by Mr. T. O'K. White) appeared for the appellant; and Mr. Lavery (instructed by Mr. F. B. O'Toole) for the respondent.

"ANCIENT LIGHTS."

BALLINA TOBACCONIST'S APPEAL.

The hearing was resumed of the appeal by the defendant in the case of Thomas Foy, licensed trader, King's street, Ballina, Co. Mayo, against John Clarke, tobacconist and hairdresser, of the same place, from a judgment of the Special Appeal Commissioners Overend, K.C., and Shannon, K.C., reversing a decision of Circuit Judge Wyse Power, who had dismissed, with £13 expenses, on the merits the plaintiff's action for an injunction, with damages, restraining the defendant, his immediate neighbour, from obstructing the light from two ancient windows, at the rear of his premises, by the erection of a wall and by structural alterations.

Mr. Denning, K.C.; Mr. Carson, K.C., and Mr. Micks (instructed by Messrs. Rutledge and Corr) appeared for the appellant; and Mr. Jellett, K.C.; Mr. Leonard, K.C., and Mr. C. Maguire (instructed by Messrs. Garvey and Huggard) for the respondent.

The arguments had not concluded when the Court rose, and the further hearing was adjourned till Monday next.

RENT OF A FLAT.

BRAY CHAUFFEUR'S APPEAL.

(BEFORE MR. COMMISSIONER OVEREND, K.C., AND MR. COMMISSIONER SHANNON, K.C.)

An interesting appeal, involving the method of fixing the standard rent of a flat in Bray, was opened. The appellant, James McTighe, chauffeur, of 3 Carlisle terrace, Bray, appealed from the decision of Circuit Court Judge Doyle, K.C., as regards the amount at which he had fixed the standard rent of a flat in the house 12 Goldsmith terrace, Bray. The respondent was Edward W. Haughton, manufacturer, of 2 Prince of Wales terrace, Bray:

Mr. Cherry (instructed by Messrs. Murphy and Mallins), opening the appeal on behalf of Mr. McTighe, stated that the house 12 Goldsmith terrace was a large house, and it had been let in flats without any substantial structural alteration. The valuation of the whole house was £46, and it was therefore outside the provisions of the Rent Act, because, in the year 1925, that Act applied outside Dublin only to houses of less than £40 valuation. Mr. Haughton had paid a rent of £100 for the whole house to the head landlord. He had divided the house up into flats, and had let them to separate tenants, of whom Mr. McTighe was one, he having been the tenant of the basement flat at a rent of £52 a year. Mr. Haughton paid £100 to the head landlord, and also paid the rates, and he received £248 from the tenants of the flats, of whom Mr. McTighe was one. Mr. Haughton himself had occupied the ground floor, and the remainder of the house was divided amongst the four tenants, who occupied the basement, first, second and third floors, respectively. Both Mr. Haughton and Mr. McTighe had now left the house.

The Circuit Judge had been asked to apportion the rent of £100, so as to arrive at a figure from which the standard rent of the flat could be calculated. He fixed the standard rent of the flat at £30, and fixed the proportionate parts of the rates payable in respect of the assessment of the flat at £12 2s., and he also decided that the standard rent of the whole house was £100 a year. Counsel contended before the Commissioners that there could be no standard rent fixed for the whole house, although there could be for separate parts of it.

Mr. Cullinan (instructed by Mr. J. M. Magee), on behalf of Mr. Haughton, submitted that there was no appeal from the decision of the Circuit Judge in a case of this sort, and that even if there was an appeal, the tenant, Mr. McTighe, not being liable for the rates, he not being a rated occupier, was not therefore entitled to deduct them in fixing the amount of the standard rent.

The Commissioners decided that the Circuit Judge had no jurisdiction to fix the standard rent of the whole house, in view of the fact that its valuation was above the statutory limit of £40. They were of opinion that the tenant was entitled to deduct the rates in fixing the amount of the standard rent, but as this question was not properly before the Court they made no judicial pronouncement on the subject. They amended the order of the Circuit Judge in so far as he had fixed the standard rent of the house by stating that he had no jurisdiction, and they allowed the remaninder of the order to stand. They allowed the respondent, Mr. Haughton, his costs.

ENERGY

In the complete and harmonious working of mind and body Wincarnis is always a definite factor for success. It holds the balance evenly between incoming and outgoing energy.

Wincarnis strengthens when strength is failing, stimulates when nerves are tiring, cheers when spirits are falling.

Wincarnis prevents the body from getting out of step with the mind, or the mind out of temper with the body. It is warming, comforting and gladdening. It helps you to resist the colds and chills of winter. It steps in between you and influenza. It fortifies the body and keeps cheerful the mind.

Every drop of Wincarnis brings you something of the glorious summer sunshine that ripens the grapes from which Wincarnis is pressed. Wincarnis puts new courage into your heart and a new song upon your lips. Above all it makes for that harmonious working of body and mind which we call happiness.

A Prominent Physician's Tribute to Wincarnis

London, 27th Jan., 1927.

"The value of a good tonic has always seemed to me to be directly proportional to the speed with which it acts, i.e., enters the circulation and effects beneficial alterative changes in devitalized muscle and nerve structures; and from this point of view, I consider 'Wincarnis' the most speedy and satisfactory tonic and restorative I prescribe.

"In this season of influenza, catarrh and sudden chills I order a glass or two to be taken daily to keep tissue resistance at a sufficiently high index to fully repel the sudden and insidious invasion of germs and toxin associated with these disorders." Signed——M.B., B.Ch.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT.

FALL DOWN LIFT SHAFT.

FACTORY GIRL'S COMPENSATION.

Mr. Nolan Whelan (instructed by Messrs. Taylor, Son and Robinson) applied for an order to review the award made some time ago in the case of Miss Margaret Kelly, of Mountpleasant place, Ranelagh, against Messrs. Leetham's, Ltd., Dunlop House, Lower Abbey street, Dublin, in respect of an accident which befell her on their premises, where she was employed. Eighteen months ago Miss Kelly, who was working in the firm's corset-making department, fell down the lift shaft from a height of about 35 feet. She was given compensation at the rate of 10s. a week.

Dr. Townley Hardman produced X-ray photographs, and said that they disclosed no trace of tuberculosis in the injured part of the girl's body. There was, however, he said, a certain "angulation" of the spine to be seen in the picture. The condition of the spine at the moment was not, in his opinion, attributable to disease.

Dr. Cecil Robinson said that he examined Miss Kelly in May, 1926, and on subsequent occasions. He was of opinion that she had improved in health, and he suggested that she should take up work of a light character.

The plaintiff, who walked by the aid of an umbrella, said that subject to the accident, in January, 1926, she was a patient in Jervis Street Hospital for five months. She was still suffering pain, and was obliged to wear a steel jacket. She was not able to resume her former work at the corset factory. She found it impossible to sit long in any one position, and did not sleep well because of her nerves.

Dr. Louis A. Byrne, who had attended Miss Kelly, said that he believed that she was permanently incapacitated, and that she had no prospect of again following her former occupation. She had had a marvellous escape.

Dr. Henry Mason gave evidence as to the results shown by another set of X-ray photographs. His opinion was that the trouble was not tubercular. In his view Miss Kelly was not now fit for work of any kind.

The Judge referred the case to the Medical Referee.

Mr. Matheson (instructed by Mr. Lane Joynt) appeared for Miss Kelly.
